LBJ Plans $3 Billion Slash in 1967 Budget

Penny Hike in Cigarette Tax Recommended

Additional Funds Would Go Toward Outdoor Program

MADISON (AP) — A penny a pack hike in the cigarette tax is being suggested to double the money available to preserve Wisconsin's wild lands and scenic streams.

The tax boost, the first to be proposed for the 1967 Legislature so far, would be designed to speed the Outdoor Recreation Act Program (ORAP) created five years ago.

The executive subcommittee of a special task force reviewing ORAP also recommended Friday that the lawmakers grant authority to borrow $50 million through bonds if more money is needed.

The increase would raise Wisconsin's cigarette tax to 11 cents a pack if adopted.

Permanent Program

The group recommended that ORAP be made a permanent program, that land buying be maintained at its present pace, and that development of present properties be increased with the extra cash.

The full task force, named by Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles to offer recommendations to the next Legislature, will sift the suggestions Dec. 5.

ORAP was created in 1961 under then-Gov. Gaylord Nelson as a 10-year, $50 million program to save scenic areas of Wisconsin's outdoors from the advancing population. One penny of the cigarette tax, now at a dime a pack, was earmarked for ORAP.

Less Than Expected

Knowles told his task force last month that the cigarette tax was yielding only $4.4 million a year for ORAP instead of the $5 million expected. He said the revenue would be inadequate to complete the program originally envisioned.

The governor asked the group to study where to get more money, how to spend it, whether land development should be stressed more, and whether the program should be extended past the present 1971 expiration date.

The executive subcommittee agreed that it should be a permanent program.

Quintuplets Born at Pittsburgh Hospital

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A Pittsburgh woman gave premature birth to quintuplets today at a Pittsburgh hospital.

The mother, Patti Aranson, 22, was reported "doing well" at Magee-Women's Hospital, but a hospital spokesman said it was doubtful the five children — all girls — would survive.

They were born in a 10-minute period from 2:41 to 2:51 a.m. and ranged in weight from 1 pound 7 ounces to 1 pound 12 ounces.

Controversial Christmas Stamp

Art Lovers Take Licking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office is bracing itself for an expected onrush of customers eager to purchase what may be its best-selling, most controversial and certainly most colorful Christmas stamp.

A spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union said, "The stamp has a religious motif — a Christian motif —

The five-color stamp, a reproduction of Flemish Renaissance painter Hans Memling's "Madonna and Child with Angels," went on sale Nov. 1 at Christmas, Mich. It is its religious theme that has brought the stamp both praise and complaints. In 1962, 1963 and 1964, the Post Office's Christmas stamps depicted nothing more religious than candles, wreaths and Christmas trees. Last year's stamp pictured a winged angel with a trumpet.

Some of those opposed to issuance of a Christmas stamp felt this year's venture went too far.

and it therefore is a governmental means of showing preference for a single religion... clearly a preferential governmental aid in propagating a religious faith."

The Post Office official line is that the stamp celebrates a famed work of art. And, as with any Christmas stamp, its real purpose is to have Christmas card mailers pay five cents per card — the Christmas stamp costs five cents — rather than send them under a four-cent rate.

The department has printed 1.2 billion of the stamps at a cost of $504,000 — or 42 cents per sheet of 100 — and expects to sell them for $60 million. The average one-color stamp costs 2 cents per sheet of 100, or about $240,000 for 1.2 billion.

Decides to Defer Some Programs

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson announced Friday his intent to trim the 1967 federal budget by $3 billion, mostly by deferring until "tomorrow" certain programs.

The announcement was hailed by leaders of both political parties as a positive step in the right direction.

After conferring with the leaders for several hours Friday at his ranch, Johnson held a news conference. The Senate House leaders took part in the meeting with a newsmen.

"Our goal is to have in excess of $3 billion in program reductions," Johnson said.

He said the cutback will be accomplished by setting a program, "if we think they are going to be necessary tomorrow they are too in the light of war situation and in the light of other demands being made on the government."

Quite happy

Asked whether he and Republican House Leader Gerald Ford were "now generally happy with the effort the President is making to cut nonessential spending," Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen replied, "Any effort in that direction, and particularly when it is substantial, ought to make everybody who embraces a reasonable or moderate or conservative view quite happy. Moreover, in that direction certainly makes us happy. It will have a definite impact on the inflation picture that obtains to some extent in this country."

Ford, one of Johnson's sharpest congressional critics, said "it seems to me we are moving exactly in the right direction."

Johnson, since assuming the presidency, has met many times with the bipartisan leadership. But Friday's conference was the first such meeting at the LBJ Ranch.

U.N. Showing Concern Over Mounting Middle East Crisis

Israel Stung By Censure in United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The stinging rebuke and threat of punishment that the Security Council has leveled against Israel reflects UN concern over the impact border clashes might have on the explosive situation in Jordan.

Diplomats noted that the council reacted to Israel's reprisal raids against three Jordanian villages Nov. 13 with the toughest resolution it has passed against that state in 15 years.

By a vote of 14-0 Friday the council issued a threat of economic and military penalties against Israel for the first time since it began dealing with the Middle East border quarrels.

'Military Threat'

Israel was plainly stung by the wording of the draft. Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay told the council that the basic cause of Arab-Israeli tension lies "in Arab belligerence and military threat against Israel."

U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said he voted for Friday's condemnation of Israel because it reflected U.S. policy based on respect for the territorial integrity of all Middle East nations.

Diplomats saw this as a thinly veiled U.S. warning to such Arab leaders as President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic not to take advantage of unrest being fomented by Palestine Arab forces against the throne of Jordan's King Hussein.

Jordan's Hussein Urged to Arm Palestinian Arabs Against Attack

BEIRUT (AP) — Racked by rioting and hotly criticized by its revolutionary Arab neighbors, moderate King Hussein's Jordan faces mounting crisis and the possibility of more border flareups with Israel.

Demonstrations have swept the west bank of the Jordan River — old Palestine — and unrest has grown among the Palestinians who make up some two-thirds of Jordan's population.

The demonstrators have demanded that frontier villages be fortified against Israel and have shouted for arms to defend themselves. The unrest followed a Nov. 13 attack by Israel against the village of Samua, which was left in ruins by Israeli tanks. Jordan asked the United States for more arms and immediately after the attack.

Propaganda Attack

Neighboring Syria has unleashed a propaganda attack against Jordan for holding back the Palestinians. From Cairo, the Palestine Liberation Organization—PLO—demands that its troops be allowed to operate in Jordan and has urged more secret guerrilla attacks into Israel. Israel says such attacks prompted its raid.

But King Hussein has refused to allow the PLO to operate in Jordan on the ground that it would establish an authority separate from the Jordanian government.

Although they have not commented publicly, U.S. officials in Washington privately are putting the blame for Hussein's troubles on Israel.

They consider Hussein the outstanding moderate Arab chief of state and have expressed guarded confidence that he will survive the pressure from militant Arabs.

The unrest on the west bank where Palestine refugees have resented Jordanian authority since the area became part of Jordan after the Arab-Israeli war of 1948, could grow into a serious threat to the king and his regime.

If Hussein were to bow to Palestinian demands, arm the villagers and permit commando raids into Israel, more Israeli attacks and frontier skirmishes could result.

Twin Cities' Nurses Plan To Quit Jobs

More Than 1,000 Have Given Notice In Wage Dispute

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — About one-third of the more than 3,200 nurses employed at 21 Minneapolis-St. Paul hospitals have given one-month resignation notices in a wage dispute.

The resignations are part of strategy by members of the Minnesota Nurses Association to win pay increases from the Twin City Hospital Association, which represents the 21 hospitals.

State law prohibits the nurses from striking.

Spokesmen for some hospital nursing groups indicated that weekend meetings would be held before resignations were submitted.

About 1,070 of the 3,216 nurses at the 21 hospitals had given their resignations by Friday night.

Army Draft Calls To be Cut 12,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon officially announced Friday the January draft call will be cut from 27,600 to 15,600.

The 12,000-man reduction was forecast by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Wednesday before reporters at President Johnson's Texas ranch.

At the time, McNamara said U.S. military needs are leveling off and over-all manpower requirements for the armed forces next year will be about one-third less than in 1966.

The Pentagon said all men drafted in January will go to the Army.

British Monitor Broadcast

Viet Cong Approve Truce for Christmas

BULLETIN

LONDON (AP) — A Viet Cong broadcast monitored in London today called for a truce in Viet Nam at Christmas and another over the New Year, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported.

The Christmas truce, it said, would last from 7 a.m. Saigon time on Christmas Eve to 7 a.m. Dec. 26. The New Year truce would start at 7 a.m. Dec. 31 and end at 7 a.m. Jan. 2.

During this time, it said, the Viet Cong would take no offensive action.

A similar truce was observed last year. The BBC said today's broadcast came from Radio Liberation, the Viet Cong transmitter in South Viet Nam, and was made in the name of the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. troops in War Zone C called an end today to the biggest operation of the Viet Nam war with the Viet Cong still firing at one American command post.

Just about the time the 1st Infantry Division and other U.S. forces terminated Operation Attleboro, Communists unloaded a 30-round mortar barrage on the tactical command post of the division's 2nd Brigade.

The U.S. command said casualties were light in the 35-minute shelling early today.

Elsewhere, the U.S. command reported no ground action and South Vietnamese headquarters announced only three small, scattered clashes in which 18 Viet Cong were killed.

Bombing Missions

Over North Viet Nam, monsoon weather persisted and limited U.S. pilots to 29 bombing missions Friday.

Off the North Vietnamese coast, two U.S. destroyers reported damaging or destroying five cargo barges during Operation Traffic Cop, the Navy's month-old campaign to halt seaborne infiltration of supplies.

Smog Crisis Nearing End

Rain, Cold Air Expect to Return East to Normal

NEW YORK (AP) — Rain fell Friday night and early today in many areas of the smog-stricken northeastern seaboard, bringing with it the possibility of an end to the three-day air pollution crisis.

A Weather Bureau spokesman said rain helps "clear the atmosphere of fine dust particles," and he looked for the arrival of a cold air mass, which has been lying to the northwest, to crowd out the blanket of stale air.

Since Wednesday the inert air, getting dirtier all the while, clung over communities from Massachusetts to Maryland. Hardest hit were metropolitan

Air Force Transport Crashes, Killing 27

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Air transport plane carrying a full complement of 43 passengers, a burned tonight near Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport, killing all 27 persons aboard, U.S. military officials said.

It was believed the plane, a twin-engine C47 Dakota, lost power in one of its engines shortly after taking off from the Tan Son Nhut airfield in the outskirts of the capital and the pilot was trying to return to the airport when the plane plunged into a swampy area.

It was believed all aboard were military personnel, but this was not confirmed immediately.

Reports from the scene said only a portion of the right wing and tail structure were left aboard the flames swept the aircraft on impact.

Headed for Pleiku

The plane was en route to Pleiku, 240 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands. An Air Force officer said the force daylight.

The piston-engine C47 was used extensively in World War II, is the military version of the DC3.

It is not uncommon for Viet Cong snipers to fire at planes landing or taking off from Tan Son Nhut, but officials said there was no indication of ground attack when the C47 went down.

The crash site was about 100 yards from the nearest runway.

Air Force officers said could not immediately be determined how many of the 43 aboard were killed.

The U.S. Air Force plane, at the time, was carrying other Air Force personnel.

Officials said it would be possible to move heavy equipment to the crash site by the first daylight.

Christian Democrats, Socialists

Germans Agree to Coalition Cabinet

BONN, Germany (AP) — Leaders of West Germany's two major political parties — the Socialists and the Christian Democrats — decided today to form a new government to replace that of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Kurt Georg Kiesinger, the Christian Democratic candidate for chancellor, told reporters he hopes a new government can be formed next week. The deal is subject to the approval of the representatives of the two parties in the Bundestag.

BONN, Germany (AP) — Christian Democrats and Socialists could form a Cabinet next week if they reach agreement in principle today on ways to end West Germany's month-old governmental crisis, Kurt Georg Kiesinger predicts.

Kiesinger, the Christian Democrats' candidate for chancellor, said in a television interview Friday he had the authority to negotiate with the Social Democrats (socialists) and needed no help from outgoing Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Erhard, a Christian Democrat, headed a minority, caretaker government since four Free Democrat ministers quit his coalition Cabinet and ended the parliamentary majority he needed to continue as chancellor.

Kiesinger said he believed leaders of his party and West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's Socialists would get portfolios in a new Cabinet. If West Germany's two major parties united for the first time in the federal republic's 17-year history.

Kiesinger and Brandt reported earlier that their views on forming a new coalition were moving closer together.

Outagamie NFO Votes on Plan To Hold Milk

Newspaper Reporter Refused Admission To Friday Meeting

Voting on the proposed nationwide milk-holding action of the National Farmers Organization (NFO) was conducted by the Outagamie County chapter at Twelve Corners Friday night in a meeting that excluded the press.

A report this morning stated the Outagamie County membership passed the proposed milk holding action by an 80 per cent majority.

The NFO is conducting similar meetings in 1,700 counties in 25 states to determine members' feelings on the proposed holding action.

According to authorities, 75 per cent of the membership must approve the action before definite steps can be formulated at the national convention, scheduled for Milwaukee Dec. 7-8.

Object of the holding action, according to authorities, is to receive a fair price for both Grade A fluid and manufacturing milk.

Night Classes In Agriculture Announced

NEW LONDON — Adult night school classes in agriculture will begin at 8 p.m. Monday in the high school, Donovan Hohman, instructor, said.

Other area classes to be taught by Hohman will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Sugar Bush School and at 8 p.m. Thursday in Readfield School.

Classes will be at the various schools on the same night each week and will run until 10 p.m.

Hohman said it was the intention to cover as many of the new problems and ideas that we can and use other people as we did last year to help instruct at some meetings.

Farmers may attend classes at any of the centers, Hohman said, but lessons may not necessarily be the same at each center.

Many of the topics discussed will be chosen by the classes Hohman said.

No License Nets Driver 90 Days

WAUPACA — Herman Babino Jr., 24, Bear Creek, was sentenced to 90 days in the Waupaca County jail when he appeared Friday in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty to driving after his driver's license had been revoked.

Babino was fined $200 and jailed. He was unable to pay the fine and was sentenced to jail. He was arrested Thursday by western county police after he was involved in a minor accident near Clintonville.

Babino told Municipal Justice George Whalen that this was his fourth or fifth time that he has, been arrested for driving after the revocation.

65-Acre Parcel Involved

Commission to Hear Rezoning Request of Conservation Club

BRILLION — Another chapter in the Brillion Conservation Club's 10 month "fight for survival" is expected to be written next week when the Calumet County Zoning Commission meets Wednesday.

The Conservation Club petitioned the county board earlier this month to have a 65-acre parcel of their total 85-acre clubgrounds rezoned from agricultural to commercial.

The matter was referred to the zoning commission for further consideration. They are expected to set a date Wednesday for a public hearing to air the contemplated change.

The zoning commission's recommendation will have to be presented to the county board for approval. This final decision is anticipated at the county board's January session.

Earlier Request
A Conservation Club petition to have 20 acres of their clubgrounds rezoned from agricultural to commercial was denied earlier this year. Zoning commission members said, at that time, that they recommended the denial because they do not approve of "spot rezoning," though the bar was open only for a brief time.

The new petition calls for a greater amount of land to be rezoned, and Conservation Club members are optimistic that the outcome will be favorable this time. A 20-acre portion on the western extremity of the club grounds will remain zoned residential.

The resulting formal complaint was then filed by the club's chief zoning administrator. The two area homeowners who complained said that rental of club business in a Town of Rantoul area zoned agricultural, is in violation of the zoning ordinance. Conservation Club members contend there is no violation involved.

Directors of the club say that the club needs the revenue from the trap shoot, clubhouse rental for private parties, and the business to carry on its conservation work.

Club activities include maintaining of public landings at nearby lakes, treating lakes to control algae, rearing and releasing about 400 pheasant roosters each year, public poultry shoots, promotion of area fishing and hunting and an annual picnic.

Fox Cities Paper Industries To Bid for College Students

'Operation Look Homeward' Will Make Known Job Opportunities

Fox Cities paper companies announced Friday they will repeat last year's "Operation Look Homeward" for college men and women during Christmas vacation.

The project is designed to better acquaint area students with paper industry job opportunities. Students home for the holidays are invited to attend a meeting in the Lou Calder Student Center, Institute of Paper Chemistry, 1043 E. South River St., Appleton, starting at 9:30 a.m., Dec. 27. Individual company programs will follow during the rest of the week.

"Operation Look Homeward" is a statewide project sponsored by the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service. Similar programs will be held in other paper communities, according to T. E. Branagan, manager of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service.

The Fox Cities observance is being coordinated by Harley O. Barney, vice president, sales, Fox River Paper Corp., Appleton. Explaining the decision to hold the project again this year, Barney said:

"By every conceivable yardstick, 'Operation Look Homeward' most successful efforts, one we simply had to repeat.

"Our young college men and women obviously enjoyed the opportunity to learn more about us, and we certainly were pleased to get to know them better.

"We know that some of the finest prospects in the nation live right here in the Fox Cities. We don't want to lose them to other areas, simply because they might not have had the opportunity to see what we have to offer.

Jampacked Observance
Last year's observance was jampacked. Whereas 170 students had registered before, more than 325 actually showed up at the general session, which was also held at the Institute, Branagan said.

There, the students were given the opportunity to mix socially. An industry representative, D. W. Bergstrom, executive vice president of Bergstrom Paper Co., outlined the history of Wisconsin papermaking and the job opportunities it provided. David Wiggins, State Department of Resource Development, listed attractions and advantages of Wisconsin living. After the general session, students could talk to various management personnel assembled at the center about individual company opportunities. More than 215 of them later visited individual firms for group discussions, interviews and tours.

A similar format will be followed this year, Branagan said.

Reactions Favorable
Without exception, student reaction to the initial project was most favorable. Replying to post-project queries from the Information Service, they said the sessions were informative and entertaining.

Seven Fox Cities firms sponsored last year's project. This year there will be 10, including the Institute of Paper Chemistry — which is interested in attracting topflight students for its graduate courses and staff.

Robert H. Mott, Kimberly-Clark Corp. public relations staff, will serve as master of ceremonies. Details of the program will be announced later.

Participating Firms
Fox Cities firms participating in the "Look Homeward" project are American Can Co.,

Marathon Paper Products Group; Alan MacGregor; Appleton Coated Paper Co.; William Siekman and Frank Sanders; Bergstrom Paper Co.; Wayne Long and Henry Bickerstaff; Fox River Paper Corp.; Harley Barney; Combined Paper Mills, Inc.; Reinhold Vogt; Kimberly-Clark Corp.; E. V. Johnson; Raymond Durkee and Robert H. Mott; Menasha Corp.; Richard Widman; Riverside Paper Corp.; Scott Brammer; Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co.; Gene Gassere, and the Institute of Paper Chemistry. Robert Rae, Arild Miller and Arnold Grummer.

Parents are advised to inform their sons and daughters of the program, Branagan said. The invitation also is extended to students at Lawrence University, the University of Wisconsin, Fox Valley Extension, and Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh, even though not residents of the Fox Cities area.

Those interested may register by contacting the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service, Neenah. Parents may register for them, if they desire.

Deer Kill Reaches 16,800 in District

WAUPACA — Registered deer kill during the first four days of the current hunting season has reached 16,800 in the 17 counties of the east-central district, 400 more than the total number registered in 1965.

Herbert Johnson, Oshkosh Conservation Department office, said figures compiled during the first four days the kill in Waupaca and Outagamie counties are near last year's total.

In Winnebago County 605 deer were registered in the first four days, compared with 357 killed in the entire nine-day season last year.

New London School Staff Changes Set

NEW LONDON — A number of changes in non-teaching duties were announced Friday by Lester B. Werner, business manager of the New London School District.

The changes resulted from the retirement of Adolph Selle, Readfield, as custodian of the Readfield Elementary School.

Werner said Selle's retirement will be effective Dec. 1. Werner said Selle would work part time as the driver of the food distribution truck for the school district hot lunch program. The hot lunch program will require the trucking of food to outlying schools from the central kitchen located in the senior high school.

Avenue Grunwald, janitor at the senior high school, will replace Selle as custodian at Readfield, Werner said. Grunwald had been working for the school district since the new school opened in August.

Replacing Grunwald will be Virgil H. Weber, 1014 Shiocton St., New London.

Wisconsin Firms Upheld Against Charge by Dairy

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Federal Judge Kenneth Grubb ruled Friday against National Dairy Products Corp. of Chicago which had charged that several Wisconsin firms infringed on its patent involving a method of packaging cheese.

The Chicago firm brought suit against the Hayseem Manufacturing Co. of Seboygan, maker of packaging machine, and five companies which used the machine: the Borden Co. with a branch at Plymouth; Safeway Stores, with a branch at Green Bay; Frigo Brothers Cheese Corp. of Lena, L. D. Schreiber & Co. and Schreiber Cheese Co., both of Green Bay.

Judge Grubb ruled that the patent was invalid.

Increase of $2,274,000 in Assessed Valuation Due to Reappraisal of Property

HILBERT — Reappraisal of village property will lead to a drop of $21 per thousand in the 1967 tax rate if the proposed budget for next year is adopted.

While estimated taxes have increased only $3,270 over the 1966 levy, assessed valuation has jumped almost $2,274,000 to $4,177,055.

The increase is due mainly to village property being assessed at full value. Last year a 53 per cent valuation resulted in an assessed valuation of $1,902,355.

If the budget is approved at a public hearing which will begin at 7 p.m. Dec. 13, Hilbert taxpayers will be paying $19 per thousand for next year.

Decrease of $8,000
The proposed budget also shows a decrease of about $8,000 from last year, another factor which has influenced the tax rate. The 1967 proposal is for about $120,960.

Officials attributed the decrease primarily to the fact that there will be no money spent for

Waupaca Man Fined For Having Beer Off A Licensed Premise

WAUPACA — Bruce G. Helbach, 20, route 1, Waupaca, pleaded guilty to possession of beer off a licensed premises Friday when he appeared in Municipal Justice Court and was fined $50 and costs.

Helbach was arrested Nov. 23 by Weyauwega police who stopped him for speeding and then discovered beer in his car.

Campaign in January

Grand Chute Man Is March of Dimes Head

Curt Biggar, Grand Chute, a building designer, has been named chairman of the 1967 Outagamie County March of Dimes campaign scheduled for January.

Curt Biggar

The campaign goal is about $20,000. Biggar will choose his team captains in the near future. The National Foundation for the March of Dimes was principally responsible for providing funds for polio research, which eventually led to the development of the Salk vaccine.

In the future, funds will be used for the birth defects program.

"Every two minutes a child is born in this country with a birth defect," Biggar said. "This means that more than 700 such babies are born daily and about 250,000 yearly."

"It is frightening to think that there are so many tragic births and such a shortage of facilities to care for these children."

The first March of Dimes-financed birth defects center was opened in 1960 in Columbus, Ohio. Today there are 77 centers in this country.

"This certainly indicates that the need is great," Biggar said. "And we need public support to continue and expand these programs."

Biggar is married and the father of four children. His firm specializes in commercial building design.

AAL Opens Parking Facilities for Use by Evening Shoppers

The north parking facilities of the Aid Association for Lutherans will be available for use by shoppers from 4:45 to 11:45 p.m. Monday through Friday and all day Saturday.

Richard Wolter, AAL public relations manager, and A. M. Diedrich, chairman of the Appleton Downtown Retail Association Christmas committee, said water and sewer utility improvements which last year were allotted $5,900.

The road budget also was cut $4,000 to $15,000, despite the objections of Clarence Stengel, chairman of the road committee, who suggested that it remain the same.

The village also will not have to pay the charge for reassessment, which cost Hilbert $3,000 in the current budget.

Almost 53 per cent of the budget is for school district purposes and state and county tax, amounting to $63,295. This leaves $57,665 for village purposes.

Tax for Joint School District No. 4 will be $48,650, up about $5,000. State and county tax jumped almost $2,000 to $14,650.

Appleton Area

Women Quit Boycott; Organize Study Group

Mrs. Bette Milheiser, Appleton, spokesman for a group called Housewives for Lower Food Prices, said today the group is calling off boycotts of products and chain stores in the Appleton area.

"We are setting up a Concerned Consumers United organization to look for a more permanent solution, with an effort toward legislation to protect consumers," Mrs. Milheiser said.

She said the new organization would be statewide and would urge consumers to write to congressmen and representatives concerning food prices.

The boycotts, according to Mrs. Milheiser, began earlier this month against four chain stores in the area. Some individual food items were also boycotted, she said.

The new group will gather information on trade, taxes, sales, marketing and small business, among other topics of study. Mrs. Milheiser said plans are being made for a meeting of Concerned Consumers United in Fond du Lac. No date has been set for the meeting, she said.

"The new group will do constructive work as opposed to boycotts," Mrs. Milheiser said.

Old Standbys, Movies Most Popular on TV

New Series Can't Seem to Make Top; Long-Time Favorites in First 5 Places

BY JINGO
After 10 weeks of the new television season, viewers' patterns are as erratic now as they were at the outset.
The American Research Bureau (ARB) listings for Nov. 13-19 did disclose, however, the continuation of several patterns noted early in the season. These include popularity of movies, domination by old standbys.

"Jackie Gleason," "Bonanza," "Lucy Show," "Red Skelton" and "Ed Sullivan" captured the top five slots — and all are long-time favorites.

The only new series to make the top 20 was "Pistols 'n' Petticoats" (17), returning for the first time since the second week of the season. And four of the five network movies are listed.

Here They Are

The complete top 20:
1. "Jackie Gleason"; 2. "Bonanza"; 3. "Lucy Show"; 4. "Red Skelton"; 5. "Ed Sullivan"; 6. "Andy Griffith"; 7. "Beverly Hillsbillies"; 8. "Bob Hope Comedy Special"; 9. "Saturday Night Movie" ("Come September"); 10. "Thursday Night Movie" ("The Country Girl"); 11. "FBI Story"; 12. "Green Acres"; 13. "Daniel Boone"; 14. "I Spy"; 15. "Friday Night Movie" ("Because They're Young"); 16. "Lawrence Welk"; 17. "Pistols 'n' Petticoats"; 18. "Bewitched"; 19. "The Virginian"; 20. "Tuesday Night Movie" ("Wild and Wonderful").

'Jumbo' loses Out

"FBI Story," in competition with "Ed Sullivan," broke into the top 20 for the first time. Also, just below the select list, was "Batman II" in 21st spot. This is the first time this campaign that last year's smash second season hit has showed strongly.

Bit Players in 'Hamlet' Now In Lead Roles

New Comedy More Strenuous Than Merry, Says Critic

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Those strolling players who do a bit in "Hamlet" get a show all their own in "Those That Play the Clowns," which premiered Thursday night at Broadway's ANTA Theater.

In the affair, which was conceived by Michael Stewart and which stars Alfred Drake and Joan Greenwood, there's a good deal of striving for breezy period comedy, but the results are more strenuous than merry, a half-speed merry-go-round. Drake does the blustering, charming rascalism with tight breeches, boots, goatee and limpid style that has been his forte since he ran into Shakespeare with music in "Kiss Me Kate." This time there is no Cole Porter around to sustain the jest. The play starts as Miss Greenwood, a hollow-eyed stage has-been in a dusty scarlet robe, and her tattered trio of male aides arrive at a wayside inn up Denmark way. After a few swagging romps with the inmates, they are summoned to Elsinore by the melancholy prince.

Lampoon Bit

This opens opportunity for an hilarious lampoon of the famous play, within-a-play bit about catching the conscience of the king and Stewart, who previously wrote the books for such musicals as "Carnival" and "Hello, Dolly!" thenceforth cribs and puns with some of the Bard's lines.

But when not squeezing a laugh from "Polonius — erroneous!" and even, help us all, from "There's something rotten in the state of Denmark!" Stewart is having story trouble.

The center of the plot concerns the heroine's unexpected romance with a local judge and her recurrent verbal jousts with

Drake, a leading man who feels that "when you say things like hag and trollop to a woman, love and all those other things are taken for granted."

To get matters rounded off, some soldiers arrive to arrest them — there's a murky bit of business — and the stage is set for a third act intended as wildly racing farce, but which limps rather badly under Robin Midgley's direction.

Sheinwold Trump Lead Best Against Low Bid

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When an opening bid of one is passed to your partner and he decides not to reopen the bidding, he must have a weak hand or trump length. Your best chance to defeat the contract is to open trumps in the hope that your partner has trump length. South easily makes one heart if West opens the jack of spades. South takes the top spades, ruffs a spade in dummy and then waits for three trump tricks.

Opening lead — A J

Declarer must not lead trumps himself, but waits for trumps to be led to him. It costs the defenders a trick to lead trumps, but they can do nothing about this since leading anything else would allow South to ruff with one of his small trumps.

West can defeat the contract by opening the three of hearts. South wins the first trick with the king of hearts, but now he cannot ruff a spade in dummy.

Trump Return

As soon as East gains the lead, he returns a low trump. South must play the seven, and West wins with the eight. South manages to get three trumps and three spades, but that is all.

South makes the contract if West opens the eight of hearts. Now when East leads trumps, South can win a finesse with the seven or six. South will manage to get four trump tricks if he is careful.

There is no harm in leading the top card of a doubleton in a side suit, but it is foolish and wasteful to lead the top card of a doubleton in trumps.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S 8 7 5 4, H Q 10 9 4 2, D K 9, C A Q. What do you say?

Answer: Bid three hearts. This shows good trump support (usually at least Q-x-x-x) and a count of 13 to 16 points. In this case you have 11 points in high cards and 2 points for the doubletons.

Franciosa In a Slick Premiere

BY TV SCOUT

8-10 (Channels 4-5) — World Premiere: Fame is the Name of the Game kicks off Universal Studios' new series of films made especially for television. It's a slick melodrama starring Anthony Franciosa as a flashy magazine writer who tries to solve the mystery of a girl's suicide. The script aches from obvious padding, cops-and-robbers clichés and flippant acting. But newcomer Susan Saint James, an intelligent kook with a floppy hat, may hold your interest as Franciosa's untiring assistant. Memorable, too, is Jack Klugman, a testy, sour villain. Franciosa is either getting bumped on the head or grinning at Jill St. John, a delectable clothes horse who whines a lot.

4-5:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Wide World of Sports moves into Houston's Astrodome for blow-by-blow coverage of Casius Clay defending his world heavyweight boxing title against Cleveland Williams. Rest of program is devoted to the National Karting Championships in Quincy, Ill.

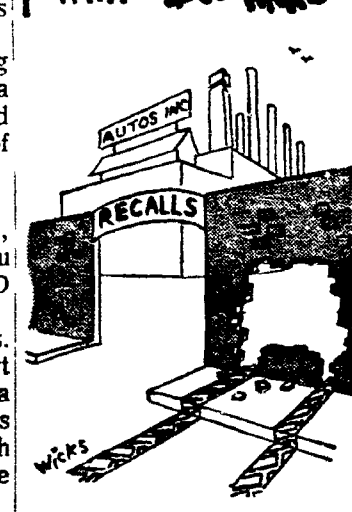

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — The Jackie Gleason Show is in a musical, nostalgic mood as it calls seven of the country's best-known bands to center stage. In this exhilarating salute to the big band sound there are performances by Duke Ellington, Les and Larry Elgart, Freddy Martin, Sammy Kaye, Buddy DeFrance conducting the Glenn Miller orchestra, Guy Lombardo and Count Basie. Gleason's chores are mainly limited to that of being a happy listener. And with tunes like "Satin Doll," "A-Train," "Moonlight Serenade," "In the Mood" and "High Society," so will you.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Shane has another thoughtful, sentimental episode with "The Silent Gift." David Carradine, our hero, turns in one of his better performances as he goes to work for old foe Bert Freed. Mission: to make some extra money so he can purchase a colt for little Christopher Shea.

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5) — Get Smart is at its sassy best with "Island of the Darned." Those durable sleuths Don Adams and Barbara Feldon are in the Caribbean tracking down a former Nazi who kills Control agents and stuffs them as if they were dead elephants. Harold Gould is the meanie but you'll probably get most of your laughs from a jazz band gone native after its plane (on a State Department tour) crash-landed on the "paradise."

8-9 (Channels 2-7-12) — Mission: Impossible is more spook (and more contrived) than usual. Our gallant agents are prowling after a "ghost" who returns every now and then to bug his wife with anti-American chatter. The idea here is make the "dead man" (once a hot shot biologist) to shut up so his "widow" (also a hot shot scientist) can keep her mind on her work. Our team employs a spiritual medium to see if they can break the spell. Guest players are Beatrice Straight.

To Your Good Health An Often Told Story, The Drunk Who Wasn't

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

This is a twice told tale. Well, many more times than twice, but it has happened again within my personal knowledge — a man with diabetes, having an "insulin reaction," and being thrown in jail instead of given medical help.

It was an accident involving the man's car. He remembers the impact, remembers arrival of police officers and being taken to the station, and he remembers saying that he had diabetes.

Despite this he was locked up without food which, at that moment, he needed desperately.

Dr. Molner

By the time his family arrived, aided by their minister, he was close to total collapse. His wife, suspecting what had happened, came armed with some orange juice. Police officers, some of them at least, were amazed at how quickly this supposed "drunk" regained his normal alertness.

The booking officer, however, refused to listen to the wife's explanation even though another officer tried to intervene.

This is what happens in such a case. A diabetes patient has to walk a rather narrow line. He mustn't consume more sugar than he can use up. But he also must guard against letting his blood sugar level fall too low. Periods of extremely low blood sugar (hypoglycemia) can cause blurred speech, faintness, staggering, partial or complete loss of consciousness — all the familiar symptoms of drunkenness with the exception that there is no odor of alcohol.

This can happen to a diabetic if, for example, he uses up too much of his blood sugar by strenuous exertion, or by missing a meal or not eating an

Donald Davis and Frank Ober-schell.

8:30-9:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — The Hollywood Palace glitters like an old "Road" picture. Bing Crosby is host and his chief guest is Dorothy Lamour who joins him in a medley of their famous movie song hits "Moonlight Becomes You," "Sunday, Monday or Always" and "Moon of Manakora." There is also a funny sketch in which Miss Lamour joins Sid Caesar to spoof silent movies. Other headliners are Vikki Carr, Liliane Montevecchi and Bill Dana.

Adoptive Texas Family Fills 16-Bedroom Home

By MARJORIE GRAHAM
The El Paso Times
EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — A 16-bedroom ranch house is hardly home for an average family, but then the Edward J. Bartholics are hardly the average family.

Two and one-half years ago the Bartholics, then living near Redmond, Ore., heard through a missionary friend of the plight of a Mexican woman in Juarez, across the border from El Paso.

The poverty-stricken woman had a 16-month-old baby who was sickly and weighed just 9 pounds. The baby's legs were deformed by rickets and he was never expected to walk, if he lived.

The Bartholics—Ed, 67, and Oletha, 57—adopted the child. They have since moved to the El Paso area and adopted nine other Mexican children. The family lives at the Angel Wing Ranch in Socorro, about 200 miles from El Paso.

8 Children

The Bartholics—he is a former insurance and lumber man—had eight children of their own, but the only child still living at home is Carlieta, 16. Their adopted children are from three separate families.

Timmy, the youngest they first adopted, is now a normal healthy 4-year-old. The Bartholics, nondenominational missionaries, have adopted his two brothers and two sisters as well—Joseph, 3; Crystal, 9; April, 12, and Jim, 14.

Diane, 11, and Lisa, 7, are natural sisters, while the third family unit includes Janice, 12; David, 7; and Lorie, 4. Their eldest sister, Angie, was not adopted by the Bartholics, but arrangements have been made for her to live in their home and attend Socorro High School.

The five-acre ranch which the family calls home lends itself well to the large family needs. There is room for 13 Shetland ponies. Bartholic hires them to a red stage coach for children's rides at county fairs, rodeos and shopping centers. Family pets include two cats, two dogs and three goats.

Own Church

Although the Bartholics are Protestant, they leave the faith of each youngster to the child's own choosing. The children from Roman Catholic homes attend their own church.

Language differences have caused no particular problem for the family. The Bartholics said the children are in different bilingual stages of development; and those who still speak Spanish serve as interpreters for their parents.

Through their own newsletter, which has on its mailing list religious and social workers throughout the country, they appeal for contributions of money and clothing to help other needy children both in Mexico and the United States.

Not Agency

The Bartholics say they have no intention of becoming an adoption agency, but have offered to help bring together people interested in taking a Mexican child with mothers willing to give up their children to better their circumstances.

"We have taken Mexican children because, at our ages, we could not adopt any here," Mrs. Bartholic said.

"We are amply repaid in the satisfaction that comes from seeing these children begin to live again. We have not taken them away from their mothers. On the contrary, when they are grown, they may return to Mexico if they wish."

Embarrass Lutheran Plan Holy Communion

EMBARRASS — Holy Communion will be observed at the 7:30 and 10:30 a.m. services Sunday at Zion Lutheran Church.

Laymen will conduct the 9 a.m. service Sunday at the Embarrass Congregational Church.

Evangelism Meetings

Non-denominational evangelistic meetings are scheduled at 8 p.m. Sunday and Friday at the Appleton Labor Temple. They are open to the public.

Sacred Concert Friday, Dec. 2 At St. Norbert

The first concert of the year by the St. Norbert College Chorus, directed by Dudley Birder, will be at 8:15 p.m. Friday, Dec. 2, in the Hall of Fine Arts auditorium. The choral event, which also features the College's Chamber Singers is free.

The concert is an entirely sacred one, Birder said, offering masterworks from each period since the Renaissance.

The main body of the program will be the "Missa Brevis" by Zoltan Kodaly. Described by Birder as "one of the four greatest masses of the modern era," the St. Norbert Concert marks its first performance in Wisconsin. The Hungarian composer wrote the music for the mass about 1940.

The "Introit" and "Kyrie" from the Requiem Mass by Mozart will highlight the Chamber Singers' part of the program. Their other four selections are motets from the Baroque and Renaissance periods.

The organist for the mass sung by the chorus is Don Richter, who also will accompany the group with Grace Moore. The St. Norbert chorus numbers 75 voices, plus 20 Chamber Singers.

Speaker Named For Appleton Bible Conference

The Rev. Paul M. Obinger, Bible Conference speaker serving under the auspices of the American Messianic Fellowship, will conduct a six-day prophetic Bible conference, at 7 p.m. daily beginning Tuesday at the Fox River Baptist Church.

Topics will include "The Second Coming of Christ in God's Program for the Jews," "Why I Believe Christ is Coming in This Generation," "God's Prophetic Outline for the Future," and "Russia's Invasion of Palestine."

During the evening message, Mrs. Obinger will conduct children's meetings. Special music will be presented at each service and a supervised nursery will be available.

The Rev. Frank A. Oslin is pastor of the church.

When Peggy Cuddleback Woodard was a girl, she read "Windows in Henry Street" and "Forty Years in Hull House," by Jane Addams. That inspired her to work in the slums of New York, but she took a different turn and before her 21st birthday she was teaching in Japan as a Baptist missionary. Although a graduate in journalism from the University of Oregon, she got her training at the Chicago Baptist Missionary School.

The war interrupted her work in a Japanese village, and she went to China. In Shanghai when the Japanese took over, she became a prisoner. During seven months of horror in a prison camp she saw the brotherhood of man at work. Behind bars all were equal and worked together to help each other; the wealthy, the poor, the society matron, the dope addict. When she returned to Japan after the war she wondered if she would have to start all over again. Such was not the case, for when she reached her village she found a memorial to her faith and the faith of the villagers. Her house had been kept intact as a symbol of hope to the people. It is now the church in that village.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

You know how those wire coat hangers seem to multiply like rabbits, and some have that piece of twisted wire on top?

After the knitted collar of my new jacket was snagged on one of those wires, I took a dislike to wire coat hangers.

Now I hold two together real

tight — in fact tie them together in three or four places.

Then I take a long strip of some material (wool, ribbon, flannel, etc.) about half an inch or so wide, and keep winding it all around these two hangers, and end up with one hanger on which I can put sweaters or anything, without fear of snagging them.

Besides that, the two together make a stronger hanger to hold heavy garments without bending out of shape.

Dear Heloise:

I'm on a diet that calls for lots of eggs . . .

My husband remarked that if I ate many more "hen-fruit", I would soon start cackling!

A.M.

Dear Heloise:

I have discovered another use for those little plastic pill containers with the snap-on tops.

The bobbins for my sewing machine are kept on spindles inside the door of the machine, and were always becoming unwound and the threads hanging down.

I took one of the pill containers and found that my bobbins fit in it perfectly.

I then asked my husband to drill a hole in the bottom of the bottle so it would fit over the spindles.

I can see the color of the thread on the bobbin, and there are no more tangled, hanging threads. When I need a certain color bobbin, I just remove the pill bottle and pick one out, and return the bottle to the spindle. Sure keeps the machine neat.

Christians Celebrate Advent With Special Color, Symbols

"For unto us a child is born; to us a son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulders, and His name will be called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace."

This prophesied Isaiah, in the Old Testament of Advent — the coming of Christ, which Christians throughout the world will celebrate Sunday.

This is the season of general penitence and prayer and the beginning of the liturgical year.

Many churches note the change with use of purple in their vestments and other accessories, and construct advent wreaths to make the season more meaningful.

The Advent wreath generally has four candles placed in a circle of evergreen. The candles may be purple, the seasonal color, or white, to symbolize purity and Christ's virgin birth.

Some parishes use a pink rose candle on Christmas Eve, which may symbolize Christ as the Rose of Sharon.

The evergreen stands for eternal life, while the flame is for Christ, as the Light of the World.

While the season does remind the Christian world of the coming of the Savior at Christmas, it also stands for the coming of Christ into the hearts of men and of His second coming to judge the world.

Midweek advent services will be held Wednesday evenings by the Lutheran churches in Appleton.

The Highway Death Story

When Gov. Knowles invited capitol reporters to his office a few days ago to describe a new highway safety publicity program entitled "Operation Survival," a news representative who had heard many previous campaign appeals wondered aloud if the governor had any confidence in this "gimmick," as he termed it.

There was represented in the incident, perhaps unconsciously, one of the inherent problems of public officials and safety specialists — the tendency for the public to regard such prayerful efforts as tedious and repetitious and humdrum. For ourselves, we have sometimes marveled at the patient, almost stubborn hope of some of these officers, among whom Gov. Knowles must be counted for his own persistence as a preacher during two years in office.

Yet the facts behind their worries are melancholy ones. We can now forecast with reasonable certainty that the number of deaths in highway collisions of all kinds during this year, aside from the fearful losses in injuries and property damage, will set a new all-time record and probably reach out toward 1,100. How can the awful price in human misery represented here be impressed upon the average man behind the wheel on the open road who is the target of safety education and the increasingly strident appeals from the public authorities?

The governor has said that he is preparing a new program for the legislature on the subject of highway accident losses, and that he will include in the list of his bills several intended to "get tough." He wants more effective enforcement of the highway safety laws in the courts. There are too many instances of dismissals, or of reduced charges, to the frustration of conscientious and hard-working police, he said. He will renew his recommendations for some proposals ignored or rejected by the legislature during his first term, including one to provide a more effective means for the prosecution of intoxicated drivers.

Others have been more prominently discussed in the public forums lately, including periodic re-examination of drivers, mandatory driver education for all high school students, and compulsory inspection of vehicles.

But there is one issue that is more likely to be understood by the rank and file motorist, and to bring more response from him, that somehow is always treated gingerly by governors and legislators. That is the matter of law enforcement effectiveness. Our own studied conclusion is that there is no more reliable inducement for safe driving for the typical driver than the occasional sight of a uniformed patrolman on the highway, and no more effective instruction in the problem than a "contact" with such an officer, as it is euphemistically known in enforcement work. Wisconsin needs a better integration of its state and county patrols, or failing that, a substantial increase in the manpower of its state-directed constabulary.

Israel Must Use Restraint

United States Ambassador Arthur Goldberg joined representatives of Great Britain, the Soviet Union and France in strong language of reproval to Israel for its raid in some force upon the Jordanian village of Es Samu last week. But even if the United Nations General Assembly passes a resolution of condemnation of Israel, it is not likely to be more than a slap on the wrist for an action that Israelites feel must be done in retaliation for the frequent Arab raids on Israeli territory.

It is generally conceded that most of the raids are the work of Syrian trained terrorists although they may live in the Arab refugee camps in Jordan. Since Syria and Egypt are the most violent opponents to the continued existence of Israel, there have been many questions raised about why the reprisal raid was carried out against a village in Jordan. It has even been suggested that Jordan's King Hussein might have been really responsible so as to justify not sending troops to help Syria as he promised recently to do if Israel attacked Syria in force.

Hussein has been a moderate ruler who has tried to tone down the violent Arab-Israeli antagonisms. But he cannot, at this time anyway, come out in favor of Israel. Such a move would probably mean his overthrow or the success of an Egyptian or Syrian plot against him.

The raid by Israel against Jordan is likely to have unfortunate repercussions that will not make for an easing of tensions in the Middle East. Syria and Egypt probably will try to use the episode to give stature to their viewpoint that there is no getting along with Israel and that even King Hussein's moderate policies have not worked. They can argue, and with some merit, that Jordan was attacked, rather than Syria, because Israel did not want a wider war. If Syria had been attacked, both Hussein and Nasser had pledged to come to its aid. Russia might help Syria as well while the United States would try to restrain Jordan from serious reprisals.

The Israeli-Arab conflict is obviously not going to simmer away to nothing for quite a few more years. It is kept alive in part by the friction among the Arab countries and the ambitions of several Arab strong men for leadership of the entire Moslem world. Thus Israel is required to show considerable forbearance in not retaliating. As Israel spokesmen have pointed out, this becomes extremely difficult when the Arab raids mean loss of life.

There is also a lot of hypocrisy involved. Ambassador Goldberg quite correctly criticized the Israel raid because it was not the act of a handful of terrorists but "the conscious act of responsible leaders of a member state and therefore on an entirely different level from the earlier incidents which we continue to deplore." But it is well known that the terrorists have the unofficial backing of Syria and Egypt and even Jordan has not been able to restrain them in recent months. Just because an Arab leader claims he does not have authority, he can not always wipe away the stains on his hands.

Nevertheless, Israel must attempt to take the longer view of the entire situation. An open war could conceivably involve the United States on one side and the Soviet Union on the other, at least as far as assistance is concerned. The raid on Jordan was a setback for more moderate Arab voices.

Let Children be Children

Dr. Benjamin Spock, the authority on childhood, had some sound things to say recently about raising junior high school children.

Parents too often encourage their "prebra" daughters "to play kissing games or have dates long before they have the depth of feeling to love seriously," he writes. This may be a parental effort to find some "vicarious excitement" in the romantic episodes of their children as Dr. Spock suggests. Or it may be in what has become almost an obsession with some mothers in particular to have "popular" daughters whatever the cost in later years, or not so later years.

Fathers also seek vicarious excitement. Dr. Spock suggests, when they became "overindulged in little league athletics. I think the whole business becomes at least mildly detrimental when fathers or teachers take over, become tense, push the kids beyond their natural inclination, make them feel ashamed when they make errors" and similar pressures that belong with at least the upper high school or college level athlete.

No one argues that organized youth activities are not important or that social events for children should not have adult supervision. But far too often both are conducted on levels far removed from what is really important or even of interest to the child. Sandlot baseball may not have included uniforms and coaches but it did have the advantage of being the kind of ball the kids wanted to play. And girls' birthday parties at the ten, eleven or twelve year old stage do not have to include dates and lipstick.

What we really need to do is turn childhood back to the children. They may conceivably turn into far more responsible adults than a lot of them are doing now under the misguided promptings and pressures of parents.

Lumbermen Off to North Woods

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Nov. 24, 1866.

Preparations are being made among the lumbermen to take an early departure to the Pine Woods.

There seems a universal determination to make the most of the time in getting out as large a stock of logs as possible this season. Men already have been employed and have gone into camp, so that we may look for lively times among the timber slashers the coming winter.

The weather — that inexhaustible topic for exhaustless minds — has been sufficiently disagreeable the past week to warrant general criticism. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday — rain, mud, fog, and now and then a glimpse of sunshine.

Surely, the cold water folks ought to have been satisfied with the quantity showered upon this portion of the mundane sphere. And the roads have been bad enough to suit wagon-makers, blacksmiths and horse-shoers in want of extra jobs.

And now Colombia comes up with a new "Panama Canal" project. It is really more of a giant TVA, and expected to benefit Colombia greatly, with little threat to the present canal.

Colombia Unveils Plans for Giant Canal, Hydroelectric Development

BY BEN F. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government of Colombia has unveiled plans, still in a preliminary stage, for a development of huge proportions.

They include the building of a ship canal, 260 miles long, between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, not as a competitor of the Panama Canal but for movement of Colombia's coffee and other exports, and for small ships going to and from South America's west coast.

But the canal is only one aspect of the gigantic plan which Colombians envision as a producer of hydroelectric power and the industrial, agricultural and social advancement of a big area of northern Colombia.

The plan resembles somewhat a miniature TVA.

The waterway, with twin locks at either end, would be along a route from the Gulf of Uraba, on the Caribbean Sea just below the Panama-Colombia border, southward to a lake formed by damming the Atrato River, and westward to the Pacific in the vicinity of Buenaventura.

in the west and the other by the Atrato in northern Colombia. The lakes would be joined by a 30-mile ship channel, 328 feet wide, 39 feet deep, costing an estimated $150 million.

Similar channels, one 34 miles long at the north, and another 45 miles long at the south, would be built to lead to the oceans.

The Atrato lake would be 120 miles long and almost 30 miles wide at its broadest point. The San Juan lake would be 69 miles long and about 9 miles at its widest point.

Like TVA, which depends heavily on sales of electric power for its income, the Colombian project would be pegged to two hydroelectric plants, one at the dam on the San Juan River, with a capacity of 800,000 kilowatts and the other at the Atrato dam, with a capacity of 2.5 million kilowatts.

Early estimates say the canal itself, one of the most spectacular features of the Colombian plan, would not alone pay out, but that power revenues would meet entire costs of the project in a few years.

NOT COMPETITOR

Colombian officials hasten to explain that the canal would not be in serious competition with the Panama Canal, nor of the sea level waterway the United States is considering at some point in Middle America. Experts here agree. They say the waterway would be too

Indian Pilgrims Need Medical Certificates Before Annual 'Haj'

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian government announced it will require medical certificates from all Moslems before they are permitted to leave for Saudi Arabia for the annual "Haj" pilgrimage to Mecca.

A Health Ministry announcement said in the past persons with communicable diseases or with chronic and disabling ailments have attempted to make the pilgrimage, thus straining medical facilities in Saudi Arabia, or dying en route.

Reorganization of Schools Example for Local Governments

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — When Tax Commissioner James R. Morgan tied the cause of state tax redistribution to the goal of local government reorganization he cited to the Legislative Council the school reorganization program of the last 20 years as a precedent.

Wyngaard

It was an apt illustration. Morgan was quite clearly suggesting that if those local government leaders who are looking hungrily to the state treasury for additional money to succor their financial worries are serious about it, they may be persuaded to re-examine their own local arrangements with a more critical eye. In short, they may conceivably consent to a more efficient arrangement of towns and counties, or cities and counties, if there is a carrot offered in the way of a more generous formula of state tax refunding or state aid payments.

That was precisely what happened in the case of school reorganization. Farsighted educators were talking about the goal of fewer and more efficient and economical but enriched schools for many years before the movement for consolidation and integration caught on. It was only when the cause of reorganization was candidly and realistically tied to state aid money that it started to make progress. The euphemism was the "incentive aid" program. A plainer and more descriptive word might have been "bait."

A HARD ROAD

Even so, it was not an easy accomplishment. More than two long decades have passed since the late John Callahan, one of the most stout-hearted men who ever held the lonely job of state superintendent of public instruction, started applying the pressure for reorganizing the school map that the fathers had invented for other times and circumstances long before. He made little progress, but he persisted stubbornly and some of his successors in later years got most of the credit. Those successors ingeniously modified the idea by persuading the Legislature to extend the carrot of state aid bonuses to those districts that modernized their district arrangements, on the one hand, and then discovered that they had enlarged their tax base sufficiently to provide the enriched program of school services that the children of the 20th century needed and their parents wanted.

Yet the stubborn resistance of the rural school establishment of those times provides a clue to what will probably happen if there is now a serious effort to extend the integration and consolidation of governmental administration to the general local government structure.

As somebody pointed out at the Legislative Council meeting, it is perfectly possible for towns and counties to merge today, thus recognizing that some of their boundaries fitted to the times of early statehood are irrelevant to the conditions of 1966. Yet such proposals are rare, and such actions are even more infrequent.

STATE PRESURE

Commissioner Morgan was complimented after he testified before the Council the other day for his "courage" in publicly discussing the idea of local government simplification.

He replied, with characteristic honesty, that he was enabled to do so because he is not required to run on the ballot to hold his office.

The point was a telling one. The question is whether those men who can make these decisions and who must run for office to have the power to make them will be willing to follow his lead. There is yet no assurance. The Council thus far has merely listened. It has not yet moved decisively, nor is there any real promise that it will do so or that any of its leaders, even those representing money-hungry Mayor Maier and his Milwaukee metropolis, will do so. Gov. Knowles has occasionally indicated that he is sympathetic to the cause of modernizing the local government pattern. Because Morgan in a sense is his agent as an appointee, the Morgan proposal may be interpreted as that of the executive office. Yet the power of the local government establishment is enormous in legislative terms, and the forecasts must be cautious accordingly.

Do State Buildings Belong in Downtown?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The College Avenue merchants and their customers are about to have an excellent area to conduct their business and do their shopping. New streets and sidewalks, a much better lighting system, removal of angle parking and more off street parking strategically located must make shopping and other business dealings much easier and more attractive. But there are three items now being considered that can mar and disrupt this beneficial situation.

Any further expansion of the county courthouse for additional office space and parking will be a negative factor to the merchants and shoppers. This also applies to the proposed location of the planned civic center and the probable location of the already federally approved post office.

These three projects when completed will positively bring more traffic to the downtown district. But it will be a sticky, slow moving bottleneck causing type of traffic that will frustrate shoppers and merchants alike in their business.

A downtown post office, federal, state, county and city offices along with a civic center is not going to make shopping easier for the customer nor is it going to bring additional business to the dealers anymore than building a six million dollar school is going to automatically produce better students and scholars.

To further heighten the attractiveness of the business district, the least expensive, structurally sound multi-level parking ramp should be built in Jones Park with free and/or attendant parking. All parking should be removed from the avenue. Keep the post office away from the immediate downtown district and the civic center, court house and other government offices completely out of the shopping area.

You will hear arguments against these above proposals that will include ideas about raw land, tax base, slum creation and control, new bridges and annexation problems. The backers of these projects who insist central location is best should read Sydney Harris' column in The Post-Crescent dated November 7.

Will he know enough to stay free?

To stay free a country requires informed citizens. In today's world newspapers are the great information multipliers. They are the foundation of responsible citizenship on which every free nation depends.

LUI is ten years old, bright but only half-literate. Luis lives in a developing country. It is a country emerging from poverty, ignorance, political instability and disorder, struggling to enter the 20th century world of high living standards, modern technology and free democratic institutions.
In a few years Luis will be an adult. Upon him the future of his country will rest. Luis will depend, as men do in all free countries, on a newspaper to teach him, keep him informed. Luis' country needs newspapers. Newspapers can stir Luis, awaken him to the needs and opportunities which face him and his country. Only to the extent that Luis can emerge from his semi-literacy can he participate in the building of a free and modern nation. One hundred and fifty years ago, when America was an "emerging nation," Thomas Jefferson put it this way: "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free, in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be."
In this struggle to enter "a state of civilization," repeated today in nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America, American citizens have a stake. For ignorance anywhere, as we see every day, threatens freedom everywhere. This year the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation, an organization founded to encourage freedom of speech and press around the world, has inaugurated the World Press Achievement Award. Its purpose: to recognize and honor those newspapers in the developing nations of the world which are contributing to the building of informed citizens. These newspapers need encouragement.
Often they operate with obsolete printing equipment. Their personnel are ill-trained. They must frequently combat government hostility. Their readers, often wretchedly poor, lack the education to read or understand. Frequently, it is a struggle for these newspapers to exist at all. Yet the newspaper is indispensable in these countries, as it is in free nations everywhere, because nothing substitutes for the newspaper's capacity to educate, to arouse, to challenge, to inform. A newspaper sets forth the face of its age. It interprets the manifold possibilities which lie before Luis, his nation, or any nation. A free and independent newspaper offers people the freedom to think and to know and thus the capacity to do. The world to stay free needs such newspapers.

It takes a responsible newspaper to wholly inform responsible citizens.

was given last month
to the Yeni Adana
of Adana, Turkey.

The Yeni Adana had its birth as an instrument of resistance against French occupation forces in the Adana area. Since its founding in 1918, it has survived periods of revolutionary political change and has participated actively in an era of fruitful social change.
It is a small provincial newspaper of six pages and 2,500 daily circulation, but it has spoken with a strong, independent voice. In its early days its founder had to flee for his life to a mountain village where he continued to publish with rudimentary equipment and clandestine distribution methods. Various governmental, economic and legal sanctions have been taken against it. In 1960 the government closed it.
Despite these conditions and a community 75 per cent illiterate, the Yeni Adana has pursued a bold, independent editorial viewpoint. It has not hesitated to expose wrongdoing by government officials in its local communities. It has sought to acquaint its urban readers with conditions in the poor and remote villages surrounding them, as well as reporting local, national and foreign news.
The Yeni Adana has been a significant factor in the development and education of its community and an inspiration in the struggle for free expression and a fuller life.

Substantial Raises Likely for Teachers

Salaries Up $156,334 in Proposed Budget; Menasha
School Bargaining Continues

MENASHA — The pay raises and how much salaries will be raised for the 1967-68 contract year. The figure the board is using to estimate raises for teachers in the 1967-68 contract cannot be revealed at this time, since the matter will soon be in negotiation and any reference to the figure would put the board in a bad bargaining position.

Supt. M. J. Gegan told the council and town representatives Tuesday that the board and administration had erred in delaying teacher salary raises during the three years prior to negotiating the 1966-67 contracts.

In that wage agreement the new salary schedule provided substantial raises in base pay at $5,150 for a bachelor degree; $5,300 for a bachelor degree and 15 credits; $5,561 for a master degree, and $6,000 for a master degree and 24 credits. This is an increase of from 9 to 12 per cent on beginning salaries, plus increments substantially increased from 4 to 11 per cent.

Sheppard's Attorney Says He knows of 2 Suspects in Slaying

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Attorney F. Lee Bailey said he has asked the police chief of suburban Bay Village to reopen the 12-year-old murder case of Marilyn Sheppard and said he gave the police chief the names of two suspects.

In a speech at Cleveland's City Club Friday, Bailey said, "not one, but two murderers are walking about the United States, possibly in your own community."

Bailey last week won an acquittal for Samuel H. Sheppard, who was charged with second-degree murder in the July 4, 1954, bludgeoning slaying of his first wife at their Bay Village home.

Mrs. John Bengtson and Mrs. James Bernd of Neenah judged the classes.

Ranking first in the conformation class was Mrs. Duncan Gunn of Princeton with her Rhodesian Ridgeback. Miss Janice Yankee, Oshkosh, was second with her German Shepherd.

Third went to Mrs. Lester Little, Appleton, with her Cairn Terrier and Mrs. Thomas Meyer, Neenah, took fourth with a German Shepherd.

Mrs. Killian Schneider, Neenah, judged the conformation class. Members were judged solely on the improvement they had made in handling their dogs

Planning for Area Through Social Studies Discussed

NEENAH - MENASHA — The first step toward inclusion of concepts of city and area planning in high school social studies classes was taken this week when social studies teachers met with the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission to discuss the feasibility of such a program.

Arno Haering of the plan commission and Richard Schwingel, Neenah High School instructor, will prepare a tentative format of such a unit of instruction and present the proposal early in December.

The cooperative venture has the support of teachers from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Little Chute, Kimberly, St. Mary of Menasha and Xavier high schools.

A crossflow of ideas between the teachers and planners, it is hoped, will develop a unit of material for classroom use which will encourage students to acquire an historical, governmental and sociological interest in their community.

The planning commission will provide statistics and other materials and the teachers will put this together to stimulate civic interest and participation in civic action for the more than 50 per cent of the students who will not be leaving their communities.

Inquest Scheduled in Death Of Neenah Youth in Accident

NEENAH — Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller will conduct an inquest into the Sept. 3 accident which claimed the life of one youth and injured 9 others on a residential street.

The van truck, driven by Jon Freund, 17, 1031 Campbell St., skidded through a stop sign at Washington and Oak and slammed into a tree. The youthful passengers were thrown onto the terraces and the vehicle burst into flames.

John Ottman, 17, son of Mrs. Albin Jury, 412 Fifth St., died shortly after the accident in Theda Clark Memorial Hospital.

Freund was hospitalized in serious condition for almost a month after the crash. The eight other youths, ranging in age from 13 to 17 years old, were hospitalized for varying periods of time.

Thieves Enter Library, Plant At Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Police are investigating two break-ins which took place over Thanksgiving Day, one resulting in loss of about $10 in change and small items while an undetermined amount of cash was taken in the second.

The public library reported the loss of small change from the desk of the librarian and money from a soft drink machine. Entry was gained by breaking a window in a rear door. Papers from a filing cabinet were strewn about the floor.

Roloff Manufacturing Corp., Gertrude Street, was entered and small amounts of change were taken from men's lockers. All lockers were rifled. Desk drawers in offices were pried open. Three knives, pens and other small items were reported taken. An unsuccessful attempt was made to enter the safe.

Entry was gained by forcing a foundry door. Doors were forced open throughout the plant to gain access to the office. Vending machines were not touched, but a .45 caliber pistol in one of the desks was removed from its holster, but left on the desk.

Familiarity Is Painted With each stroke onto the canvases of Neenah artist Henry Young, now showing at the Bergstrom Art Center, Neenah. The twelve paintings exhibited are of favorite local landmarks — you will recognize the home of the late Mrs. Vina Beals, 220 W. Menasha-Kaukauna Plan

Hearing Set on Electric Hookup

MENASHA — A hearing will be held at the Outagamie County courthouse at 9 a.m. Jan. 5 by the Public Service Commission on the application of the Menasha and Kaukauna electric utilities to interconnect the two municipally owned electric services.

The utilities have applied to construct two 34.5 kilovolt electric transmission lines, each about 13.5 miles long, plus related equipment and substitution facilities. Estimated cost of the project is $1,490,000 with Menasha bearing $780,000 of the amount and Kaukauna $710,000.

The hearing also will consider another application by Kaukauna to construct a steam-powered generating plant consisting of one 15-megawatt generator and one 22-megawatt generator at a cost of $4,200,000.

The interconnection between Kaukauna and Menasha would provide emergency power service in the event of a power failure in either community in also to provide back-up power in the event of a peak-power demand in either community in excess of that city's production capacity.

Plans for an interconnection were started in 1965 after a battle in Menasha over efforts of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. to purchase the Menasha utility. These efforts came about after a massive power failure in Menasha in 1964.

In that power failure, which occurred in the Menasha generating plant, an emergency power line was hooked up from Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. to start the Menasha generators up again. This emergency hookup has remained in force to provide standby power for Menasha.

The Kaukauna utility also has an emergency power agreement with Wisconsin-Michigan and, in addition, purchases some of its power from the private utility.

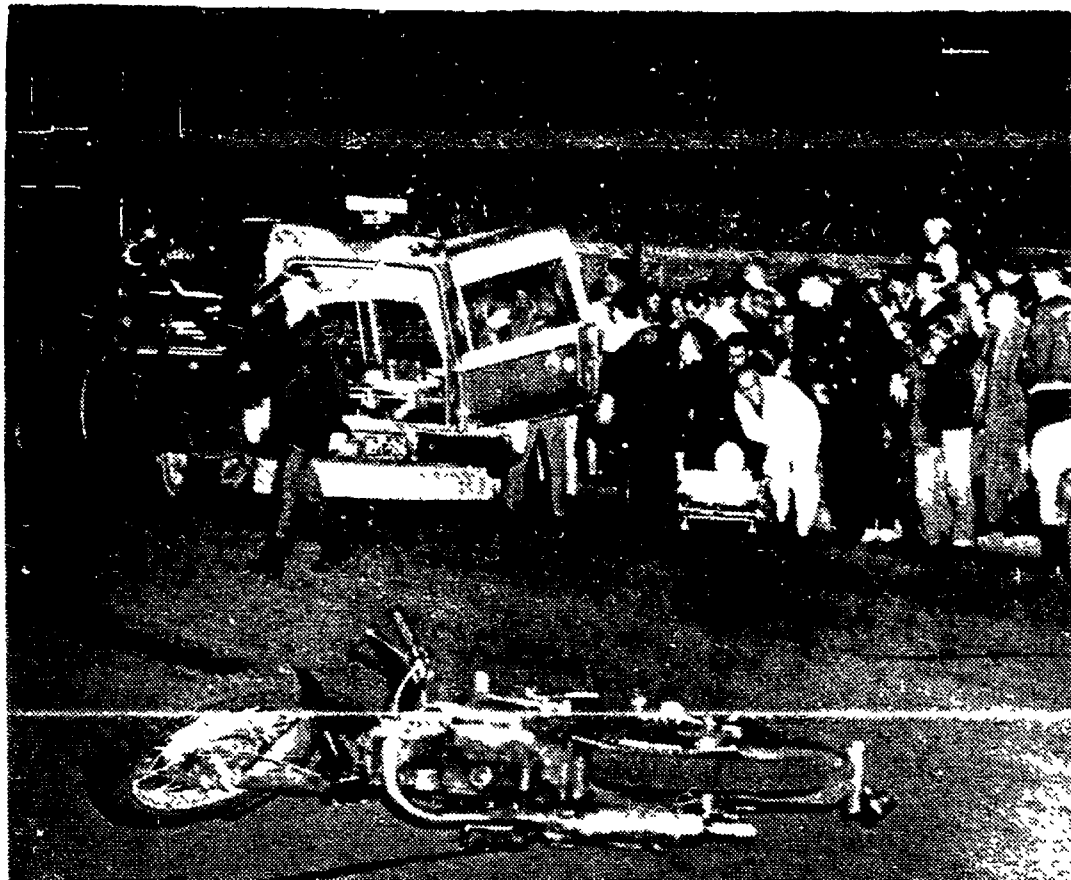

Social Studies Teachers from area high schools met this week with the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission (FVRPC) to discuss an interchange of ideas for community planning and classroom instruction. First Snow Stirs Memories Of City's Old-Time Winters

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Last week's snowfall took Reinhold "Reiny" Schulze back about half a century.

The resident of 803 W. Lorain St. worked 48 years for Appleton, and recently retired as street superintendent.

The preview of approaching winter prompted Schulze to recall the old days when as a strapping 14-year-old youth he started work full time for the city at 40 cents an hour.

When Schulze was hired the entire city public works force consisted of 20 to 25 employees, mostly laborers, except for two street bosses, one in charge of everything north of College Avenue and the other the area south of the Avenue.

College Avenue and Durkee Street were paved as were a few others, but for the most part, Schulze said, Appleton had gravel roads.

Relied on Horsepower

The horse-and-buggy era was starting to fade a bit but people relied mostly on horsepower to get them about the city.

During the first few years of Schulze's career, curb and gutter had not come into being. Underground sewers were adequate until they began to be overworked as the community grew.

"We didn't have much equipment," Schulze said, "because we did very little snow-plowing in the winter and had no need for it."

"If roads were covered or blocked with snow, people just didn't get around as much," Schulze recalled, adding that times really changed over the past four decades.

The few Appleton residents who did have cars reconciled themselves to the fact that when winter came the old jalopy had to be put up on blocks until late spring.

On Old Fairgrounds

It was during this time that the public works garage was an old shed located on Washington Street at the old fairgrounds where the West Ramp now stands.

"The place got the name 'City Barn' because we kept two teams of horses there," Schulze said. When necessary, other teams were rented for municipal work.

Winter weather arrived much earlier in those days than now, Schulze says, and spring made its debut earlier, too. Summers seemed longer and more enjoyable, he reminisced.

"We could always look for a good frost anytime after Sept. 1," Schulze commented. He remembers the weather, he mostly on hand labor to take care of snow and ice-coated, slippery streets every winter. Cinders from the mills were shoveled onto the roads.

Equipment Added

Schulze said the most significant piece of new equipment the city purchased in following years was a power road grader. "It was a makeshift model but did a lot of work," Schulze recalled. Over the years the equipment fleet was built up in keeping with the times and demand.

Even until Schulze's retirement, however, a public works job meant long hours, whether during chronic spring-winter floods or regular winter assignments.

"The people expect a lot more today than they did years ago," Schulze said, "I can remember a time when if the street wasn't plowed out for three days there were few complaints. Today they have to be cleared by the next morning."

He added this has come about due to the rapid growth of the area, increase in automobiles and hundreds of miles of streets now in existence.

He added this has come about due to the rapid growth of the area, increase in automobiles and hundreds of miles of streets now in existence.

Schulze remembers when Appleton had no municipal garbage or rubbish collections like it has today. It sponsored an annual cleanup week in the spring when anything and everything could be put out to be hauled away by the street department.

"It would be common to find 20 to 25 baskets of ashes in front of a house," Schulze said, along with other throw-aways piled to near pyramid heights.

The closest call Schulze ever had to being seriously injured, or possibly killed on the job occurred one night during a rainstorm when driving a pickup truck about the city handling complaints. "I had just gotten out of the cab of the truck when a huge tree fell on its top, flattening it," Schulze said. A "strange cracking sound" had prompted him to make a hurried exit.

Noting another change, Schulze said years ago street department men worked six days a week, putting in a 10-hour day, and never got paid for Sunday work.

Through the years Schulze moved up the ranks and 11 years ago became street superintendent.

Enjoys Retirement

Schulze says he is enjoying his retirement, having grown weary of a regular work schedule which usually had him up at 5 a.m. Now he does things at his leisure. He lives in the house in which he was born July 5, 1904.

He likes hunting and fishing and plans to do more of the latter, along with devoting additional time to a hobby of many years — growing plants, vegetables and flowers, starting from seed and keeping a log on their progress.

It was through "an old junker car" that Schulze met Elizabeth. Her father had purchased it from Schulze and when it didn't live up to expectations, the seller was paid a visit by the buyer.

"I fixed the trouble with the motor," Schulze said, "and met the man's daughter whom he brought along for the ride."

The meeting later blossomed into a long, happy marriage.

Suit Against Braves Gets
Extra Boost

Illinois Joins
Wisconsin to Get
Ruling Reversed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Illinois teamed up with Wisconsin Friday in asking the Supreme Court to hear the Badger State's antitrust battle with baseball, saying the effectiveness of new Illinois antitrust laws was at stake.

Pending before the tribunal is Wisconsin's appeal, asking reversal of a decision of the Wisconsin Supreme Court. That decision of last fall overturned the conviction of the National League and its member clubs on antitrust charges stemming from the move of the Braves to Atlanta after the 1965 season.

The high state court said baseball's immunity from federal antitrust law made Wisconsin powerless to enforce its own law against the sport.

Under Consideration

The Justice Department said Wisconsin has asked it to intervene in the appeal as a "friend of the court." A department spokesman said the request is under consideration.

In a "friend of the court" brief Illinois Atty. Gen. William G. Clark said his state last year adopted a new antitrust act modeled in many respects after federal laws.

Clark's brief said "Illinois has attempted to vigorously assert its new act against local violations of well recognized antitrust policies. . . . At the threshold, however, Illinois is confronted with the decision of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, which if allowed to stand unmodified may seriously impede its attempt to enforce a state antitrust policy which will complement federal antitrust policy and extend it to otherwise un-reachable areas."

Clark said Illinois contends "that merely because Congress does not choose to regulate a particular business or industry, that industry is not to be deemed exempt from state regulation."

The U.S. Supreme Court is expected to make known next month whether it will hear arguments on the Wisconsin appeal and later announce a final decision.

Bert Yancey
Has 1-Stroke
Lead in Meet

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — "Golf is a selfish business," says Bert Yancey, a young Floridian who has won three tournaments this year and is seeking a fourth in the Cajun Classic-final stop for 1966 on the PGA circuit.

Yancey carries a one-stroke lead into today's third round of the $34,500 Cajun Classic after shooting a five-under par 67 Friday to go with his first round 65. His 36-hole score was 132.

"In golf, you play for yourself, and I don't feel that I'm really contributing anything to the world," said Yancey in an interview after his round Friday. "It's kind of depressing at times."

Hot on Yancey's heels after the second round was Johnny Pott, who hasn't won a tour victory in two years but has picked up paychecks totaling $95,000. Pott had a 66 Friday for a 133 total.

Just behind Pott, at 134, were Bob Goalby, John Schlee, Jacky Cupit, and Wright Garrett.

Miss Whitworth fired a two-under-par 70 Friday to jump into a tie with Mary Mills of Ocean Springs, Miss., for the second-round lead at 144 strokes.

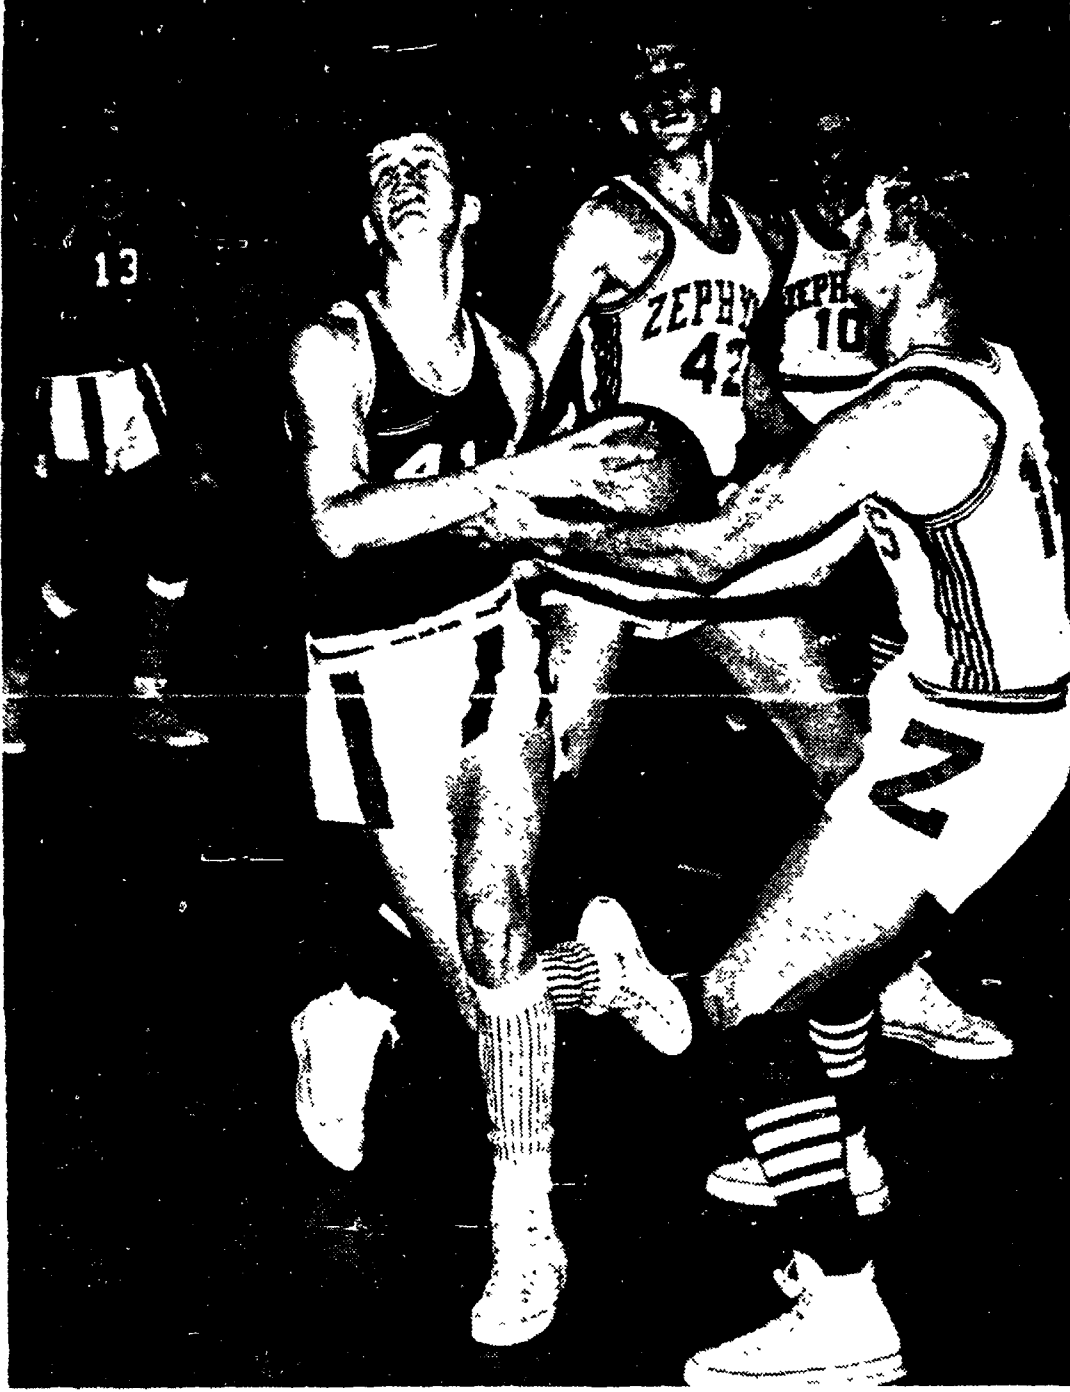

Miss Mills, who shared the lead with three others after the first day's play, improved her opening 73 with a second-round 71 to stay in the fight.

Two Rivers '5'

For North, Don Hef and Curt Brost were high, with 11 points each. Two Rivers led, 33-29, at the half. Both teams now have 1-1 records.

St. Mary's Mike Heroux (14) appears ready to jerk the ball away from Bob Muettteries (41) of Stevens Point Pacelli as the latter drove in for a layup in the first period of Friday's non-conference game at Menasha. MENASHA — Mike Gage drilled home 37 points and he and his St. Mary High School teammates poured in 51 in the second half to highlight an 82-66 non-conference triumph over Stevens Point Pacelli here Friday night.

The victory squared the Menashans' non-conference record at 1-1. They will entertain Weyauwega at the Menasha High School gym at 8 p.m. today.

Although Gage provided most of the offense, he had plenty of help in being set up by Mike Heroux, Greg Gill, Greg Haldeman and Tom Wroblewski.

Good Floor Game

Heroux played an outstanding floor game, harassing the Pacelli ball handlers, feeding Gage and contributing 11 points. Gill, a 6-4 1/2 pivotman, gave the locals a rebounding edge and also hooped 11 points.

Haldeman also was in the double figures with 10 points while Wroblewski broke up several Pacelli scoring opportunities.

Gage's total, garnered on 14 baskets and nine free throws, included nine first period points, only two in the second, 11 in the third and 15 in the fourth. He hit from all angles — underhanded layups, long jump shots and tips included.

St. Mary was in control most of the first half but the Cardinals made nine of the last dozen points of the second period to claim a 29-all deadlock at the intermission.

Gage tipped the ball to Gill and the latter drove in for a layup to start the second half and the Zephyrs were in front thereafter.

Baltimore Colts, 'More
Importantly,' the NFL

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bert Bell Jr., business manager of the Baltimore Colts, announced Friday he is leaving the Colts and "more importantly" the National Football League, saying he "cannot condone the crass commercialism that is striking at the very heart of the game."

Bell's late father guided the NFL to its present prominence, serving as commissioner for 13 years, from 1946 to 1959.

The younger Bell said "it is quite clear that Bert Bell's protective ideology is not in the mainstream of pro football philosophy. I cannot lend the Bell name to the series of policies that has become the vogue in the last few years."

Bell, who has been with the Colts since 1961, criticized the NFL's television policy, the "NFL capitulation to the AFL" in their merger, and the "super-market air that has invaded the football." And he questioned the "complete disinterest in the season ticket holder."

Bell objected to the "A Madison Avenue gimmickery that has glutted the market with NFL by-products, and finally to the new sentiment that has arisen—quantity, not quality. The new medium in the NFL is the Almighty dollar."

Bell had been mentioned as a successor to Don Kellert, who steps down at the end of this season as Colt general manager but the job went last week to Joe Campanella, a former Colt player.

When asked if Campanella's appointment had anything to do with his resignation, Bell said "no more than its involvement with all the other reasons I'm quitting."

Bell's brother Upton is personnel manager of the Colts.

If History Repeats Rematch of 1964
Packers Could Explode Against Vikings

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP)—If history repeats, the Green Bay Packers could explode Sunday and bury the Minnesota Vikings under an offensive avalanche in their 1966 National Football League rematch.

Whether the Packers do, however, rests on one great intangible: the fickle Vikings' emotional state.

In 1964, the Vikings scored their first victory over the Packers at Green Bay, 24-23. In that year's rematch four weeks later, Green Bay blew down Minnesota 42-13 here.

Have Incentive

Three weeks ago, the Vikings upset the Packers again, 20-17 at Green Bay. Now, the Western Division-leading Packers, who stand 8-2, have the same incentive to avenge a defeat against an inconsistent foe which shows a 3-6-1 record.

The Packers' long tenure in the NFL has given them several key rivalries. But for the Vikings, there is only one arch enemy—Green Bay.

"We always seem to be able to get 'up' for Green Bay," said in understatement. "It's hard to reach that high emotional state each week, as you'd like to. But we never have any trouble when we play Green Bay."

Last Chance

Tarkenton, who led the Vikings to their victory three weeks ago, admits Sunday's rematch is Minnesota's last chance to redeem itself for an otherwise dismal season.

"We haven't got much to play for this year except the great challenge of playing the Packers," Tarkenton said.

And Vikings Coach Norm Van Brocklin added, "We've got to fight for our self-respect and pride."

After edging the Packers, the Vikings slumped—losing 32-31 to Detroit and 21-6 to Los Angeles.

"The win over the Packers," Van Brocklin said, "should have exhilarated us. But it didn't. Instead of going up, we went the other way. Why? I don't know. I just don't know."

Finest Hour

Many considered the 20-17 triumph three weeks ago the Vikings' finest hour, because Minnesota did not win on fluke plays. The jubilant Van Brocklin said then, "We put it to them in the fourth quarter. We beat them at their own game. We proved we can play with the big kids."

Now the Vikings have sunk back into a limbo because of a breakdown on offense. "We are capable of tremendous high moments and tremendous low moments," Tarkenton said. "No body can explain it."

As Tarkenton goes offensively, the Vikings go—or don't go.

"He's had some good days against us and some bad ones," Coach Vince Lombardi of the

Hawks Post
Fourth Win
Of Season

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

An authoritative second-half performance Friday night enabled Xavier High School to defeat Fox Valley Lutheran, 67-49, in the first all-Appleton basketball battle since 1960-61.

The favored Hawks, who were making their fourth start of the season — while the Foxes were in official competition for the first time — ran into a buzz-saw in the first quarter and had to be content with a 15-15 tie. The second quarter remained close, but Xavier opened a 5-point halftime lead (32-27).

In the third quarter, the Hawks' superior experience, marksmanship and defensive play prevailed — and they opened a 54-40 lead. Unbeaten Xavier continued to dominate the final period to clinch their fourth straight victory — all by double-figure margins.

Jack Scores 22

An overflow, wildly enthusiastic crowd (several hundred other fans were turned away because the FVL gym ran out of room) watched Xavier's sharpshooting Gene Jack pump 'em in from near and far to set the scoring pace, with 22 points.

Jack, who pitched in nine of 20 field shots and four of five free throws, barely edged FVL's nifty Dave Tiedt for scoring honors. Tiedt pumped in eight of 22 floor shots and five of six free throws, for 21 points.

Xavier's Tom Heinritz (with 13 points) and Pat Fitzgerald (12) and FVL's Gary Depner (11) were the other double-digit scorers.

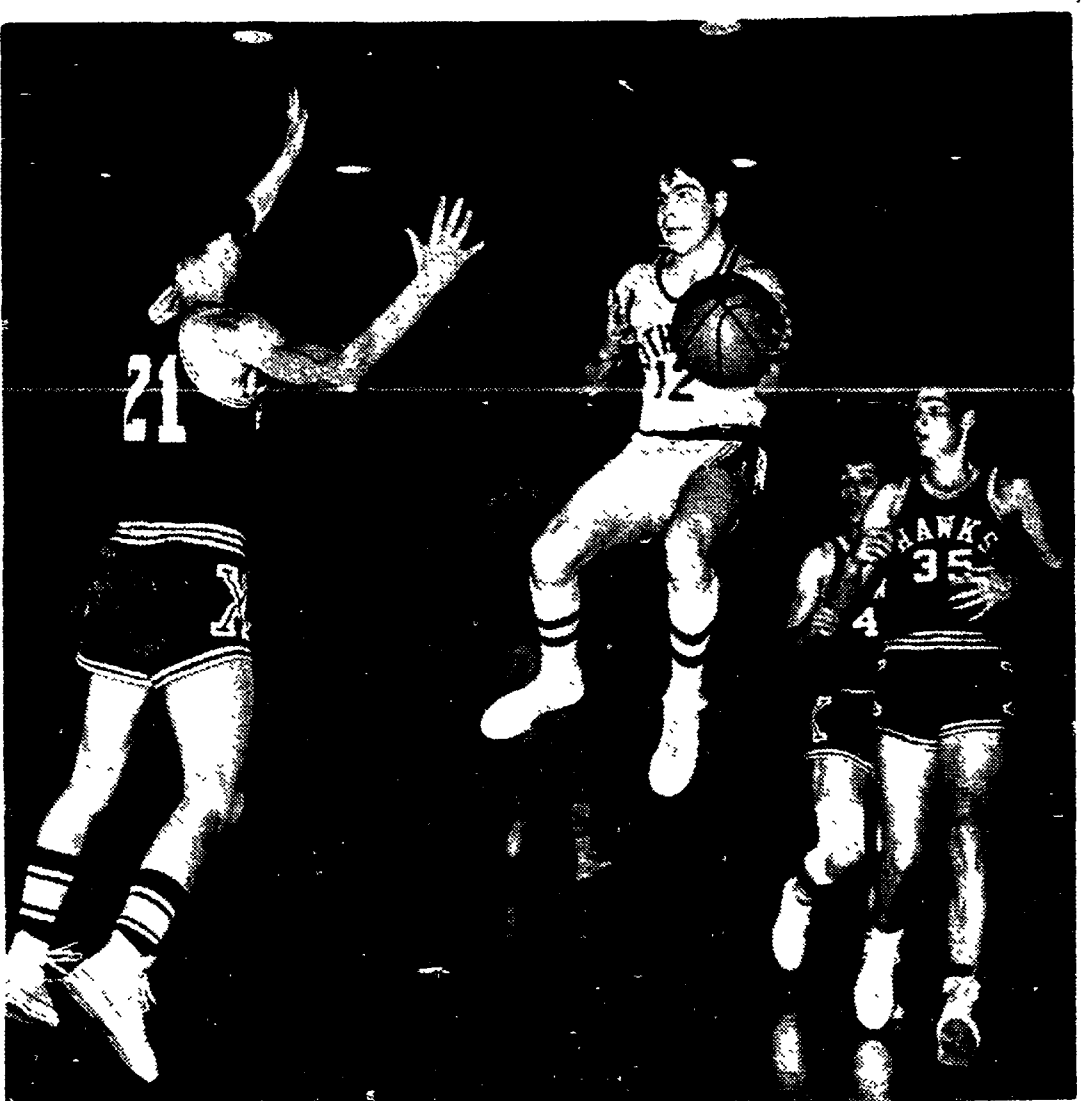

The Gene (Torchy) Clark-directed Hawks, who took a 3-2 lead in their series against Fox Lutheran, make their final pre-Fox Valley Catholic Conference start at 7 p.m. Sunday against Milwaukee Notre Dame in the Xavier gym. It will be the first athletic meeting between the schools.

The Gerry Kaniess-coached Foxes swing into Midwest Prep Conference play next Friday on the FVL floor.

Xavier never trailed last night, but the score was tied four times. The Hawks' Dan Hardy hit a rebound goal to open the scoring. FVL caught up, at 6-6, on Tim Johnson's 20-footer.

FVL used a deliberate style of

Badger Quarterback Boyajian
Ranked Eighth Among Passers

CHICAGO (AP)—Wayne Todd of Wisconsin was third in rushing among Big Ten sophomores in final conference statistics released Friday.

Todd gained 373 yards in 97 carries for a 3.8 yards rushing average.

Todd ranked ninth among all ball carriers. Clint Jones of Michigan State was the Big Ten's leading rusher with 593 yards in 120 carries, an average of 4.9 yards.

Purdue's Bob Griese was the passing leader with 89 completions in 152 attempts for 1,223 yards and nine touchdowns. Wisconsin's John Boyajian was eighth with 52 completions in 103 throws for 724 yards and two touchdowns.

Boyajian was ninth in total offense — another category taken by Griese.

Pass Reception

Tom McCauley of Wisconsin led all sophomores in pass receptions with 38 grabs for 569 yards and three touchdowns. McCauley ranked third among all receivers.

Jack Clancy of Michigan was pass receiving king with 50 catches for 698 yards and four touchdowns.

Wisconsin's Bill Fritz was 13th among the receivers with 18 catches for 209 yards. He scored no touchdowns.

Tom Schinke of Wisconsin ranked third in kickoff returns with 16 and averaged runback of 24.3 yards. Jim Detwiler of Michigan led the conference with a 26.1 average but he returned only seven kicks.

Schinke was also fourth in punt returns with 10 for a 12.7 yard average. Rick Sygar of Michigan was the leader with eight returns for an 18.5 yard average.

Don Schaffner of Wisconsin was the eighth - ranked punter and the only sophomore punter among 11 listed in the statistics. He had a 36 yard average for 39 punts — the highest number in the Big Ten.

Stan Kemp of Michigan took punting honors with a 40 yard average on 36 kicks.

Wisconsin's Bob Richter was second in the Big Ten in unassisted tackles with 47 and assisted in 37 more for a total of 84 and fourth place in the tackling listing. Frank Munley of Michigan, like Richter a linebacker, made 34 solo tackles and helped in 65 more for a conference-leading total of 99.

Ken Criter of Wisconsin ranked 20th in tackles with 30 made alone and 24 assists. He was fourth among the sophomores in the listing.

Schinke ranked fourth in interceptions with four. Phil Knell of Illinois was the leader with six. Schinke broke up seven passes, eighth best in that classification.

Clinton Jones
Of MSU Takes
Rushing Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Griese, Purdue's triple-threat quarterback, captured the Big Ten's statistical championship, final figures showed Friday.

The Evansville, Ind., native, who will lead the Boilermakers against Southern California in the Rose Bowl, won the passing, total offense and scoring titles. Halfback Clinton Jones of Michigan State took the rushing crown.

Griese's passing accuracy of .586 on 89 completions in 152 attempts is third best on Big Ten records. John Coatta of Wisconsin set the record in 1950 of .642. Iowa's Randy Duncan hit .595 in 1958.

Third Highest

Griese's passing yardage of 1,223 also is third highest behind the 1,544 job by Iowa's Gary Snook in 1964 and 1,308 by Illinois' Tommy O'Connell in 1952.

Total offense yardage of 1,337 by Griese is second only to Snook's 1,560 record in 1964.

Michigan had five individual leaders — Jack Clancy in pass receiving, Stan Kemp in punting, Jim Detwiler in kickoff returns, Rick Sygar in punt returns and Frank Munley in tackles.

Bill Curry, center for the Green Bay Packers, will be the guest speaker at the annual fall banquet of the Appleton Christian Business Men's Committee at the Methodist Fellowship Hall Monday night.

The banquet for both men and women, is open to the public. Tickets for the banquet, which begins at 7 p.m., may be obtained from either Berggren's Sport Shop or Pond's Sport Shop.

Curry came to the Packers in the 1964 draft as a 20th round future pick a year earlier. While playing his collegiate football at Georgia Tech, Curry gained second-team All-America selection at center and linebacker.

He moved into the center position this year after an injury sidelined Ken Bowman.

Curry, 24, is married and is a prominent figure in Christian activities. He is assistant director of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes of the South, and also studies theology in the off-season. Curry's home is in Atlanta.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Alex Hannum is supposed to be the one coach who can handle Wilt Chamberlain, but the skipper of the Philadelphia 76ers says The Stilt does all right on his own.

In fact, after Chamberlain scored 41 points and led Philadelphia to a 129-115 victory over Baltimore Friday night, Hannum indicated his own presence was a bit superfluous. He credited Wilt with everything but putting air in the basketballs.

With their high-scoring guard, Hal Greer, sidelined with a viral infection, Chamberlain took over the offensive load.

Wilt sank his first 12 shots from the floor, missed his first attempt in the fourth quarter, and then made his last four.

A Miracle
Chamberlain holds the NBA record of 19 consecutive field goals, so 16-for-17 isn't too spectacular. But he also made nine of 11 free throws, and for Wilt that's almost a miracle.

The 7-foot-2 star also grabbed 19 rebounds, assisted on four baskets and blocked several shots from his one-man zone. "With Greer out, Wilt took charge," Hannum said. "He knew what had to be done. He's the leader in every respect. He even took himself out of the game when he could have scored 50 or 60 points, but he knew we had a game Saturday night."

The 76ers now lead the Eastern Division by two games over the Boston Celtics, who lost Friday night to the Detroit Pistons 107-105.

The Cincinnati Royals beat the New York Knickerbockers 115-109 and Chicago Bulls defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 121-117 in other NBA games.

Marion Whips Wittenberg

Mustangs Explode In Final Canto For 70-50 Win

MARION — Marion turned on the power in the fourth quarter here last night to race past a scrappy but outmanned Wittenberg outfit, 70-50. The victory evened the Mustangs Central Wisconsin Conference record at 1-1, while Wittenberg suffered its second straight loss.

Wittenberg made its last bid in the third quarter, when the Wildcat guards began stealing passes and forcing the Mustangs into other mistakes. The spurge brought the Wildcats to within seven points at 49-42 going into the final period, but the balanced Marion scoring attack turned the game into a rout.

Tom Jolin paced the Mustangs with 15 points, Ron Schewe accounted for 14, Ron Radies hit 13, and Bill Niemuth added 10. Greg Bushman and Bill Mathison fired in 14 and 12 markers for losing Wittenberg.

Xavier, which was out-rebounded in the first half, came back aggressively in the third period for three quick baskets — on tips by Jack and Dan Hardy and a steal by Fitzgerald — for a 9-point lead (33-23).

The Hawks, who sank 10 of 20 field attempts in the third quarter, extended their lead to as much as 16 points (52-36). FVL switched from a zone defense to a man-to-man during the second half.

Xavier fired at a 41 per cent game-long clip — 25 baskets in 61 shots. FVL was on target 32.8 per cent of the time — on 17 for 53. The Foxes had greater free throw accuracy — with 15 for 20, while Xavier sank 17 of 30 from the line.

Stopped Runner on Pass Interception

Packers' Jim Taylor Has 3 Good Defensive Plays to Credit So Far

Post-Crescent News Service
MINNEAPOLIS — Linebacker Jim Taylor?

The Packers' belting fullback might never play linebacker in the pros ... but he has three good defensive plays to his credit this year already and two of them must have made Ray Nitschke smile.

Taylor doesn't get much chance to make a tackle and the fewer chances the better it is with him.

These rare opportunities occur when the opposition intercepts — for a league concepts a Packer pass. The Packer offense immediately goes on defense.

Three Interceptions
Bart Starr has thrown three interceptions — for a league leading 1.7 percentage of his 181 attempts — and Zeke Bratkowski has been intercepted once.

Taylor made the tackle on three of the interceptions and the other was made by Forrest Gregg — with an assist from Starr.

Steve Stonebreaker of the Colts made the first interception in the 1966 league opener in Milwaukee on one of those short shots over the line. Gregg blasted Stonebreaker out of bounds and, as Starr recalled, "I guess I was on Forrest's back."

The next interception was made by fleet Elbert Kimbrough of the 49ers on the San Francisco 19-yard line — with a clear field ahead. Taylor was somewhere around the line of scrimmage on the play but he caught up with Kimbrough on the Packer 27, saving a sure touchdown.

Quickly Cut Down
Starr's third interception was made the next Sunday in Chicago by Doug Atkins on a screener at midfield. Taylor out for the pass himself, quickly cut Atkins down.

Taylor made an excellent play on the fourth steal — off Bratkowski in last Sunday's Bear game. Rich Petitbon took the ball on the Packer 25 and set sail with Dick Butkus blocking in front of him. How can you miss?

Taylor came across the field, tossed Butkus aside with one sweep and then belted Petitbon out of bounds on the five-yard line.

Jarrin' Jim is no stranger to defensive play. He was a 60-minute player at LSU and backed up the line when he wasn't fullbacking.

Chicago QB Job on Line

Rakestraw Brought Up From Bears' Taxi Unit

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears activated quarterback Larry Rakestraw from their taxi squad Friday, but the role of the long-idle University of Georgia product against the Atlanta Falcons here Sunday was conjectural.

Bear owner-coach George Halas said regular quarterback Rudy Bukich, who has announced planned retirement next season, would start against the once-victorious new National Football League entry from Atlanta.

In last Sunday's 13-6 loss at Green Bay, Bukich, 33, was spelled briefly the first time this season by 35-year-old Bill Wade, who lost the quarterback job to Bukich last season as the Bears won nine of their last 11 starts.

Mel DeBruin came through with a 588, Bob Coenen had 562 and Bud Rector posted a 552.

eight points of the third period, the lead steadily began to mount. It was trimmed to four, a couple of times but an 11-4 edge late in the segment upped the count to 51-40 going into the fourth frame. At one spell, Gage hit nine straight points.

Pacelli had a 26-point quarter but because of the hosts' torrid shooting, couldn't cut into the lead.

Pete Konopacky led the losers with 15 points. Tom Koehl posted 14.

Wound Was Worse Than VA Thought; Vet Gets $10,537

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Arandall J. Snodgrass, 43, who was wounded by a Japanese sniper in the Philippines during World War II, has won a silver plate in his head for more than 20 years.

He has been receiving a government disability pension for the wound. A few weeks ago a Veterans Administration official in the regional office in Huntington discovered the hole in Snodgrass' head was larger than had been marked on government records.

The VA office said Snodgrass of Charleston, would receive $10,537.40 in back payments since his disability pension was based on an inaccurate rate determined by the size of bone loss in the skull.

17 Cage Teams To Compete in Kaukauna Loop

KAUKAUNA — Seventeen teams, an all-time high, signed to compete in the recreation department sponsored Men's Basketball League which will begin play this evening in the old gym at the high school.

The large number of teams forces scheduling of games on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays rather than merely on weekends as was done in previous years. Since the entry fee covers only a small part of financing the program, James Gertz, recreation department director, anticipates an unexpected drain on the recreation budget.

Referees, scorekeepers and school maintenance men must be paid every time a game is held. Plans call for three or four games to be played each night, some getting underway as early as 4 p.m. Teams will be divided with nine playing in the Eastern Division and eight in the Western Division. On certain nights, Eastern Division squads will be pitted against Western Division units.

Surgeon Develops Shoe to Cut Down on Knee Injuries

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston orthopedic surgeon has developed a football shoe which he believes will decrease the number of knee injuries suffered by players.

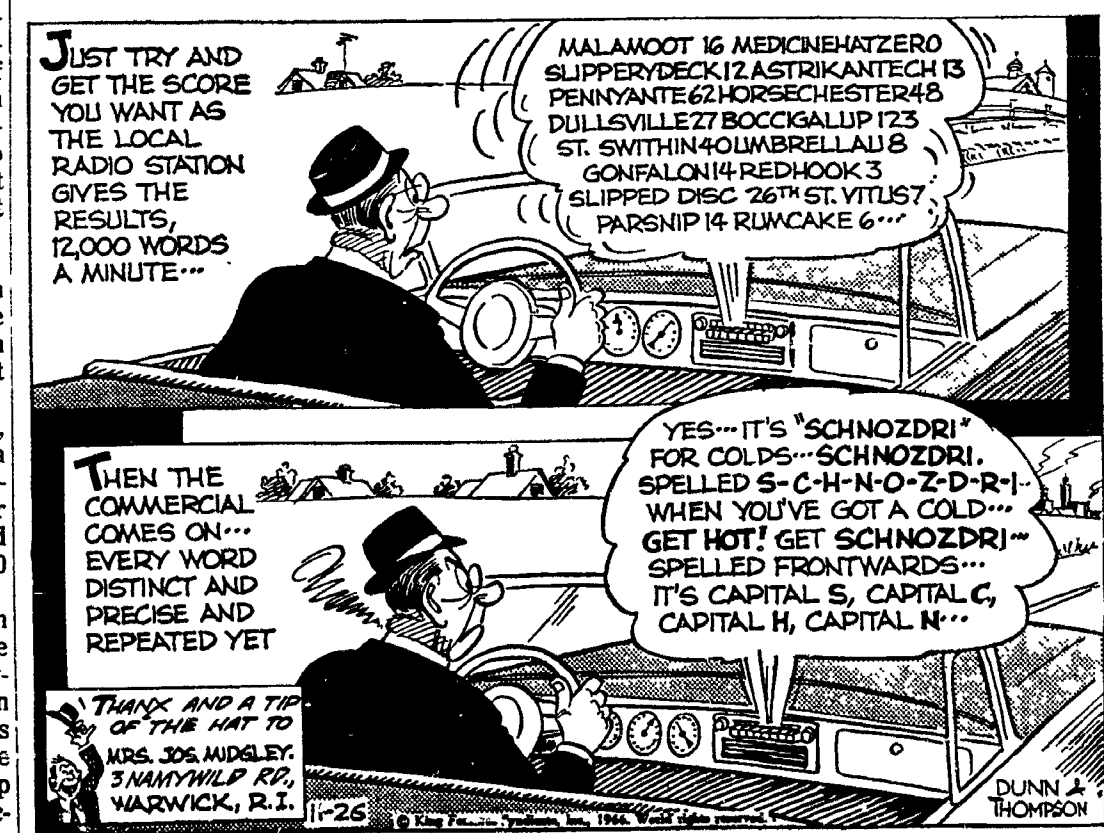

Dr. Bruce Cameron said Tuesday most of the knee injury occur because cleated football shoes forced into the turf were not allowing thigh and shin bones to move as a unit as nature intended. He said this is too much torque for the knee joint to absorb and cartilages pop out under strain.

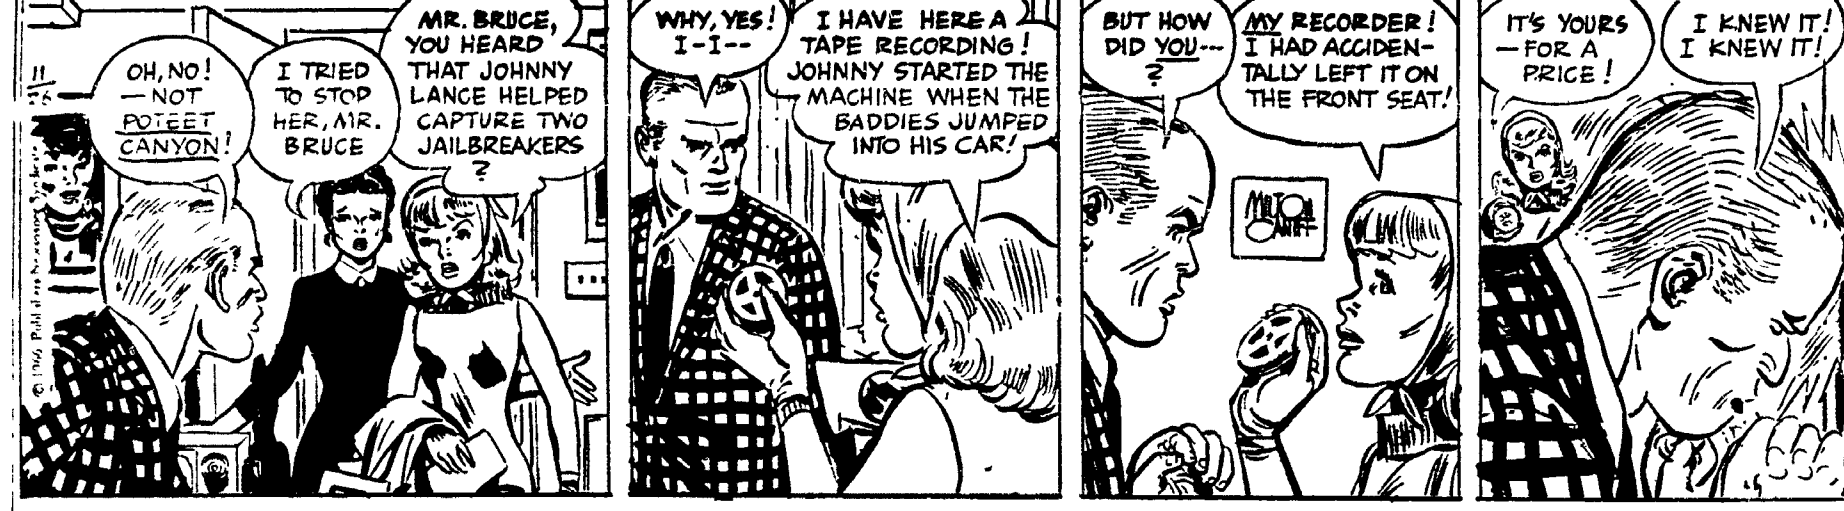

Started 2 Years Ago
Two years ago, Cameron started working on the new shoe which he said affords traction but will give with the movement of the leg.

After trying many types, Cameron hit upon one with a ribbed rubber heel which provides a skidding effect. Four rubber sole cleats are attached to a steel plate that revolves 360 degrees.

Cameron said tests in which players wearing these new style shoes were paired against players of comparative speed in conventional football shoes proved that those wearing the new style picked up half a step every time they changed direction.

A String of Nut Faces! Here's How It Is Made

BY CAPPY DICK
English walnuts, pecans, filberts, almonds and brazil nuts can be turned into funny faces room will form an unusual display.

From a supply of mixed nuts, select those you consider most suitable. A nut may have natural markings, indentations or ridges which can become part of the features of a face; if so, be sure to use it.
For eyes, use two dots of white poster paint and when they have dried, put a dot of blue, brown or black at the center of each. Use black dots for nostrils and eyebrows and red for lips.
The hair, scarf or hat is to be glued to the nut. As you study it, decide the kind of hair or headdress the face should have. For example, an almond may seem best suited to blonde hair, which is just some yellow yarn. The filbert may look well in a scarf as shown in the picture. The scarf may be tied around the nut and glued at the bottom. Dickens characters may be made out of English walnuts. Black hair for the Brazil nut can be made of wool yarn or from felt cut into fine fringe.
Glue a loop of thread to the top of each head so the nuts can be hung on a string as in the picture above. To keep them from sliding together the loops should be glued to the string. Single nut faces can be worn on a necklace or pinned to a lapel.

Query Veterans on Income From Pension Benefits

Income questionnaires which determine the amount of pension a veteran or his dependents receive from the Veterans Administration will be included in the November payments in Wisconsin this year.
M. L. Halloran, manager of the Veterans Administration regional office, Milwaukee, said those who receive pensions are required to return the income questionnaire before Jan. 31, 1967, in order that their pensions may be continued. A window envelope will be furnished for use in mailing the completed questionnaire to the proper office. It is important that this envelope be used, Halloran said.
Pensions vary according to incomes, and go to persons who have become totally disabled from causes not related to military service.
Veterans receiving disability compensation for service-connected conditions are not required to report income and do not receive questionnaires. However, veterans receiving compensation for service-connected disabilities and who receive additional benefits for dependent parents will receive a dependency questionnaire which must be completed and returned before Jan. 31.
These forms should be returned as soon as possible.

A. J. Thelen, County Boards Leader, Resigns

State Association's President Was Well-Known Lobbyist

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Retirement of Alfred J. Thelen, for 35 years the voice of county government at the state capitol and probably the state's most widely known lobbyist, was disclosed today.

Wisconsin County Boards Association spokesman said Thelen will give up active management of the group he founded during the early days of the Depression of the 1930's, but will remain for a year as consultant.

His successor has not been named. Association directors were in session here this week and were known to have a number of prominent candidates under review.

Successor Being Considered
Myron Lotto, De Pere, vice president of the group, said it is unlikely a successor will be named until Dec. 10. He said the person under consideration for the post has a business commitment until that date.

Thelen grew up in Green Bay and started his career in the paper manufacturing industry in northern Wisconsin.

He was working as a technical adviser for the administration of the late Gov. A. G. Schmiede- man when he was invited by leading county chairmen to form a federation of counties to appeal to the Legislature for local government assistance in meeting the desperate financing problems of that time.

Earned High Reputation
During succeeding decades Thelen earned the reputation of being the Legislature's most influential and respected lobbyist.

He was the architect of major legislation in the field of highways, welfare and institutions.

His persistent purpose was the protection of county finances through the assurance of state participation in county services and programs directed through state legislation.

Woman Has Tot, Healthy Heart To Love It With

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors reported today that Mary Pirozzi, 35, of Boston had two reasons to be thankful this week — a whole heart and a new baby.

Mrs. Pirozzi twice had undergone unsuccessful operations for heart repairs before she became pregnant last spring.

Doctors advised her that she had a chance to survive with further surgery. The 90-minute open-heart operation was performed in May at Massachusetts General Hospital, and she was brought back to the hospital in September for close supervision.

Early this week she gave birth to a healthy 6-pound, 10-ounce son. Doctors said mother and child will be able to go home next week.

Red Arrow Division Looking for Different Summer Training Site

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Maj. Gen. John Dunlap said Friday that the 32nd Division will not train at Camp McCoy next summer.

The Red Arrow commander said the unit probably would be sent to Camp Ripley, near Brainerd, Minn., for its annual summer session, but that final approval had not been received.

Dunlap said the 9,000-man division could not train at McCoy because the newly established Job Corps training center there had taken over "quite a bit" of the military installation, including artillery, military police and signal battalion areas.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

EXPERTS AGREE THAT WIVES SHOULDN'T WORK! TRUE OR FALSE?

False. There have been many studies about the wisdom of a wife working and the effect of working mothers upon their children. There is no clear evidence that a wife's working is either good or bad in itself. It depends upon many factors, such as her saleable skills, the age and number of her children, her husband's attitude toward her working, and how she feels about working. From what is now known, the wisdom of working or not working is up to the individual — fortunately!

Are there "sex differences" in the meanings of words?
Yes — No

Yes. Prof. Florence Good-enough of the University of Minnesota tried out words on both men and women. The word "how" to women and girls often meant something worn in the hair, not a single male, of any age group, so interpreted it. The men saw it more largely in terms of archery. Likewise, the term "file" meant something used on wood or metals to the males. To the females it related much more to manuring. No wonder men and women have such trouble understanding each other.

Many men take a proprietary interest in their jobs!
True — False

True. Thus, the president of a company may think of it as

Warning Issued To New London Bicyclists

Police Concerned About Poor Riding Habits, Equipment

NEW LONDON — Police Chief Jack Algiers Friday issued a stern warning to bicyclists to improve their riding habits.

Algiers said the poor riding habits were more evident recently and his department and the people have become fearful of possible results.

The major concern is riding bicycles after dark, without proper lighting or reflectors, Algiers said. Many complaints have been received from motorists who narrowly missed hitting a youngster riding at night, he said.

Proper Equipment
"Parents should not let their children ride at night unless the bike is properly equipped," Algiers said, adding that a check of each bicycle should be made to insure safety.

"It is very hazardous to the safety of the cyclist to be on a street after dark without lights," Algiers said.

Numerous other violations have been noticed by the police department which are dangerous, he added. The most common violations are riding double and failing to obey arterial he said.

Confiscation
"The city ordinance carries a penalty of confiscation of the bicycle, but we have only limited storage space and are unable to confiscate more bicycles," Algiers said.

We will return to our letter writing campaign early in 1967, Algiers said. Letters are written to parents of youngsters observed violating bicycle laws or in dangerous action asking them to explain the safety rules to the children and take appropriate action, such as the suspension of riding privileges for a period of time.

Algiers said a form letter was being prepared to replace the personal letter which had been used previously. At times five or six letters per day were being sent out Algiers said, and this was too time consuming.

Robert Marr and Sons of Mineral Point, Wis., showed a Hereford that took second place and went on to become reserve champion in the quality beef show.

In the quality lamb contest, Richard Sullivan of Monroe, Wis., had a second place weather.

Plans Final Meetings

Manawa Group Seeks New School Backing

MANAWA — With only two informational meetings remaining before the school bonding referendum Dec. 6, the Committee for Better Schools is urging all district residents, who have not yet attended a session to attend one of the two remaining.

The committee's informational program will be presented at the Parent-Teacher Association meeting Monday evening and again at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the high school.

The program consists of films taken of schools toured by the committee with comparison to the Manawa facilities. Brief talks are given by committee members. David Lindsay, chairman, talks on the need for a new high school. Dennis Sexton and Mrs. Leo Ferg explain what the physical plant would have to offer and the academic benefits. The cost of the new school and what it will mean to the taxpayers is discussed by Gilbert Wandtke. Robert O'Brien tells why the committee thinks a "yes" vote on the referendum is so important. A question and answer period follows each meeting.

The present plant has long since outlived its basic adequacy, committee members say. It was built in 1917 and has been added onto as the need arose. It would take up to $100,000 to expand the present high school to minimum standards set by the State Industrial Commission and many major problems would not be solved, authorities said. Another $90,000 would be required to remodel two outlying grade schools to temporarily meet the minimum standards, which would possibly be outdated in two or three years, they said.

If a new high school is built, the present high school will be developed into a junior high. Specialized training would be available to help bridge the gap to high school physically, emotionally and academically, authorities said.

The proposed year-round indoor swimming pool offers many benefits. Among them are competitive sports, a place for youngsters to go with supervi-

Wayne Bryan, public works director, said today he hasn't heard from Omniflight Helicopters, Inc., Janesville, since Monday when the firm indicated it would attempt to schedule the spraying operation sometime next week.

The program could be handled in two days but the company has contracts with other communities and the climatic conditions for spraying may not continue to be favorable as the winter weather is approaching.

The spraying must be done in above-freezing temperatures, preferably more than 40 degrees, and when there is little wind.

Senator Asks Buckley for Aid Backing

A U.S. senator from New Jersey has written Mayor George Buckley of Appleton to support federal legislation geared at helping growing cities.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. said he introduced legislation calling for standing committees in both houses of Congress to deal with the cities.

"Evidence is piling up at an alarming rate that the federal government has neglected the cities of America," Senator Williams said, "while focusing its resources on the farms, business, labor and almost every other facet of American life."

Changed Attitude
"Very recently, we have seen the beginnings of a change in attitude in Washington, as evidenced by the establishment of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and passage of the Demonstration Cities Act," Williams wrote.

Mayor Buckley said he could acknowledge the senator's letter.

Appleton has a $15 million water expansion grant pending before HUD in Washington.

MENASHA — A patrolman suffered a possible whiplash neck injury when a parked squad car was struck by another auto in the 900 block of Plank Road Friday evening.

Patrolman Lee Roy Blank, 30, was advised to see his family doctor. Damage was estimated at $100 to the left rear of the squad car and $90 to the right front of the other car, which police said was operated by Raymond Cleveland, 53, 1438 Plank Road.

Cleveland said he did not see the squad car in time to avoid the collision.

3rd Waupaca Policeman Kills Deer

WAUPACA — Robert Andraschko Friday became the third Waupaca policeman to kill a deer in the line of duty within the city, during a current deer season.

Andraschko was called to Royalton Street, on the eastern edge of the city Friday morning, to kill a doe injured when it was struck by a car.

The first deer killed in the city by police this season was last Sunday when Police Chief Fred Rasmussen was called to shoot a doe that had first run through Habig's Clothing Store and then into the Coast to Coast Store on Main Street. Chief Rasmussen shot the doe in the sporting goods department of the hardware store.

A seven point buck was shot, Wednesday evening at the intersection of Eighth and Lake Streets by Patrolman George Meyer. The buck had been hit by a car and had a broken front leg.

The heavy hunting pressure in the area surrounding the city has resulted in many deer being chased into the city.

'Super' Vocational District Still Sought

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago-Waushara County Fact-Finding Committee will continue to pursue having Winnebago County included in the Outagamie County centered vocational school district.

A spokesman for the committee, which met Wednesday for the first time since the State Vocational Board subcommittee released proposed district lines, said their principal aim is still to keep all of Winnebago County in one district.

The subcommittee has recommended that the northern third of Winnebago County be placed in a vocational district with Outagamie, Waupaca and Calumet County school districts and the southern two-thirds be placed in a district centered around Fond du Lac County.

'Super' District
The Fact-Finding committee, an unofficial group of county residents, had fought for a district comprised of Winnebago and Waushara Counties but had later given support to a county board resolution calling for investigation of a "super" district with Outagamie County.

M. Edward Kelly, executive secretary of the Oshkosh Area Chamber of Commerce and member of the committee, said they had hoped to meet with Neenah-Menasha representatives before Monday to gain their support for the latest proposal but most of the key figures are out of the area for the holiday.

The Oshkosh Vocational and Adult Board of Education meets Monday night and is expected to discuss whether to back the proposal to join with Outagamie County.

Kelly said the next move is pretty much up to the Neenah-Menasha and Outagamie County interests, indicating he did not think there would be much chance of the state changing its recommendations without the support of these groups.

County Intact
The Oshkosh Area Chamber of Commerce went on record, before the state recommendations came out, in favor of a Winnebago-Waushara district. The chamber has not taken any further action since.

Kelly said regardless of which way the final district lines were drawn, Oshkosh would cooperate with the district center. We are not opposed to Fond du Lac, he said, but our main concern is keeping the county intact for vocational school purposes.
